

Shabat Study June 25, 2021, by Yada

Please Note: I have transcribed this to the best of my ability. Sound bites of parties speaking simultaneously and those which were inaudible to me have been deleted from the transcript. If I guessed at a word, it was followed by ()? A _____ (blank line) indicates I could not understand the word or phrase and three periods ... indicate an interruption in the dialogue of one party by another. Thank you for your understanding. MK

Good evening; Happy Shabat to one and all. Kirk and I are with you this evening; JB is celebrating his anniversary with his Bride. ... Happy Anniversary, JB and Patty.

First, I want to direct your attention to our new website, yadayahowah.com, now presented in the new look of our books with the new script, the Lion of Judah with the white, gold and blue theme throughout, is now up and directly linked so you can either type in yadayah.com or yadayahowah.com. Even Questioning Paul will now go to it. The site now contains all 15 or 16 of the rewritten books from In the Beginning, The Story of Man, Covenant and Invitations which are the first four volumes now of Yaha Yahowah. We're about half-way through Miqra'ey | Meetings which will be Volume 5 of Yada Yahowah. We also have one out of An Introduction to God Series called Written in Stone.

Then there are five volumes of Observations from Perspective, Covenant, Growing, Teaching and Understanding. Those books began with the Proverbs on a family relationship, and they migrate through the first 20 chapters of the book of Yasha 'yah | Isaiah, and then the two volumes of Coming Home which go through the first 23 or 24 Mizmowr | Psalms and is a real awakening; a fundamental landscape change in the way that we viewed Yahowah's message in the sense that the central figure in God's story is Dowd who is the Messiah, the Son of God, the King of Kings, and the Chosen One. He is the Firstborn, the Shepherd, the one who will be returning with Yahowah, and the most extraordinary individual who ever lived. He is the center of God's focus.

There are four volumes of Questioning Paul | Liars Lie, Towrahless, Devil's Advocate, and Incredible. Thanks to both Jackie and the edit team from JK to Mike and Molly, we now have a final chapter – a chapter that we have been reviewing that I have added to Questioning Paul since it is so condemning of the Christian New Testament. We will return to that this evening. For those who want to follow along it's now the final chapter of Incredible Volume 4 of Questioning Paul. If you click on it on the bookshelf and go down to the 7th Chapter which is called the Death of Religion, you'll find specifically what we're talking about.

It's a marvelous site because every book tells you what page you are on in that book; you can go between the various chapters linking directly to them. You can see the books from a front cover spine; that cover reads everything that is there including the prologues, and then from that site go to all of our categorized podcasts, to the community of people supporting Yahowah's message, even to the books as they are available in printed and Kindle form at Amazon. I think you can purchase all 16 volumes on the Kindle format from Amazon for $14.85. Sixteen volumes averaging approximately 600 pages per volume. It's unbelievable.

Speaking of unbelievable, you know how Portland became the locale for ‘We don’t want any more of them police, that the police are racist, and we’re just going to have the summer of love in Portland, and we’re going to allow the protestors to establish their own community (which is of course now nothing but a drug and arson community).

I just want to give you an update. Now that there is no policing in downtown Portland Homicides are up 533%. Shootings which, of course, they were trying to eliminate by eliminating the cops, have increased 126%. So, it’s working out really well for the people of Portland.

In Surfside, FL, in a fairly heavily Jewish community, a building collapsed. Of the 99 people that are missing under the rubble, 20 of them are Jewish. I did wonder why in America you would find a 20-some-odd-story building that would just crumble. It almost looks like it was part of one of those ... no because there’s nothing twisted there ... it’s all these twisted structures of rubble that was left and it was nothing but dust, sort of like the when World Trade Center went down. A study from researchers at Florida International University published last year found that the building had been sinking at a rate of a few millimeters per year, which is not particularly good structurally, obviously. The author also said that the building was constructed on reclaimed wetlands, which is a considerable amount of Florida. This is a concern because as the organic material over time degrades, the land slips.

Speaking of not so good, I came on very early in 2020 right after we heard about the outbreak of the coronavirus. Based upon research Leah, my wife, and I had done, we came to the conclusion that it was highly likely that the coronavirus emerged in Wuhan Virology Institute, and that it was a combination of deliberate and accidental. We learned of irrefutable evidence that the institute was doing what the rest of the world, particularly the United States, had been doing which was gain of function research on viruses. Gain of function means that you make the viruses either more effective in transmission or more effective in replicating or more effective in jumping from one species to another.

We also reported that the National Institute of Health had funded the lab to the point of (if we use Fauci’s numbers of 3.7 million dollars) there are other numbers as low as $800,000; it ranges anywhere between. We said there was no question that that happened while Fauci was in charge because peer research papers published out of the Wuhan Institute credit the National Institute of Health of the United States for the funding of the research. It has been subsequently disclosed that Trump tried to stop it and of course Fauci trying not to stop it. We now have Senator Rand Paul correctly accusing Fauci of the funding and even of the Washington Post giving Fauci a number of Pinocchios for his evasive answers. Four million people around the world died of COVID-19 virus. So, this is a very significant event because it didn’t just kill 4 million people world-wide, it has ransacked the world’s economies, and the lingering cost of it is far greater than the published cost which is that it has destroyed economies and has destroyed supply lines, destroyed people’s character, has caused untold numbers of domestic violence, has caused a huge increase in psychological issues, you almost can’t fathom the side effects – drug abuse, alcoholism, and even things like, for example, the world’s most important construction commodities – wood, steel, things like that, they are up three to four times in price, and you just can’t get them. You can hardly buy wood and when you can buy it, the price is just shocking; you have to pay three to four times increase, and it's true on commodities now around the world because we had nincompoops shut down and tried to manage the economies as if they were communist dictators and then deprive people of their freedoms once again as if they were communist dictators.

One of the things we said at the time was that it was obvious that bats having all three, e-bola, HIV, and SARS viruses had been brought into the lab and had infected one another which produced a mutated strain that contained elements of all three viruses which is why it had such a harsh effect on people's cardiovascular and pulmonary systems. That is all proven fact.

The other interesting part of this is that we said that there was absolutely no evidence linking the wet market; that the first cases are traceable to the Wuhan Virology laboratory where they did not adhere to protocol, and there are now a gazillion pictures that show this. They weren't wearing their Hazmat-type suits but instead were wearing typical lab coats while handling infected bats which infected a person and that person then infected other people.

At this point what we know for certain is that the first cases have nothing to do with the wet market; that the first cases do tie back to the Wuhan Virology Laboratory, that the Laboratory was doing gain of function research and the United States was funding that research, and that there was an accident at the lab and that the Communist government of China deliberately, purposefully, and knowingly destroyed the evidence, that had it been made available they may have well saved 4 million lives and the economies of the world.

If you would like to come up with a reasonable explanation for why the Communist government of China would deliberately and knowingly destroy all of the evidence about the virus in its early stages that doesn't include complicity in developing that virus, I'm all ears because the fact of the matter is there is no other motivation and no other rational explanation. It's rather astonishing that we have so few people just acknowledging the truth.

At this point the world has fundamentally changed as it relates to the scientific community because science ain't science anymore; it's more politics now than science, and academicians are almost universally liberal. An example at Stanford is a case that was published last week that said that Jewish professors there found the workplace intolerable because of the (DEI)? movement and because of anti-Semitism. The college environment has become among professors a singular mindset, it's like the social media police in this respect. It is a singular mindset, and it is the far extreme of liberalism. In that environment the scientists that came out, all wanting to keep their jobs, wanting to be respected among their peers, all denounced ... the initial findings that it was the Chinese Communist government that was responsible for this. They were wrong, they know they were wrong, and there is lots of backtracking and people saying, 'We need to do more research into this and need to figure this out because it is absolutely certain it had nothing to do with the wet market, that it did emerge sooner and that the Communist government did in fact.' Those are facts and it's also factual that the Wuhan Lab was doing the gain of function research and that the United States was funding it.

Now those are really damning facts when 4 million people are dead around the world and that we fundamentally changed the way we view our fundamental rights of freedom and freedom of expression. There were shows that we did that were deleted from You Tube because it was deemed ... violated their standards on vaccines when in fact I was ... vaccinated myself; my wife is vaccinated, we tell everybody that will listen to please get vaccinated. We are incredibly pro-vaccine and have gone so far as to say that just as there were cases brought against those who had HIV and had contact with others in a way that passed on the virus and did not warn them about it that they were later sued and lost to those who claimed deprivations of freedom and degradation of health. In fact if they died, manslaughter. I said the same thing about the coronavirus. You have every right not to take the vaccine; you have every right to get the virus. But you don't have the right to pass it on to somebody else. That is my view on it.

And of course, I'm anti-conspiracies. I'm going to label things that are conspiracies. The antivax nincompoops who think the government is trying to track them are dunderheads. The government has no reason to track somebody who's lives are as miserable as these individuals. So, I wanted to share that. We now know that what Leah and I found and communicated on this program now a year and a half ago was accurate and it's being confirmed every day.

There was a study that just came out this week from Great Britain that actually used a tracking mechanism to prove that by the time that it was in the wet market it had already mutated and that it did not emerge there, and it proved that none of the early reported cases had any contact with the wet market.

The unrelated issue to this, we have now probably the world's leading expert on SARS-related viruses coming out now after having written a letter initially, of course the science of it all, saying, 'No, it came from the wet market and had nothing to do with the lab. You guys are creating conspiracies out of thin air. What I had written was untrue; it did not come out of the wet market. The lab happens to be the best explanation for what has happened to us.'

Anthony Fauci has become quite the politico. It turns out that when Donald Trump found out that he had authorized additional hundreds of thousands of dollars to go to the Wuhan Institute of Virology, even after the outbreak of the virus, Trump said to cancel it. Fauci said no, he didn't want to do that because there were no technical grounds for cancelling such research. He said the US had made a commitment and we were going to pay it and that the $369,819 was just the balance of the 220 Grant and Trump said he didn't give a damn what Fauci thought and for Fauci to cancel it. Fauci had a conniption fit and one of his colleagues said he should threaten to resign over it. Fauci said, 'You want me to resign over a lousy 3.7 million dollars? No way.' Fauci is now saying that any criticism of him is an attack on science, so I guess he is now the epitome of science in America, and yes he is, when the New York Times writer Kara Swisher did a podcast with him, he said that any attack on him you are actually criticizing science and not him.

Listen. Once upon a time in a land far, far away science was science and politics was politics; that land no longer exists, that time no longer exists. The scientific community has become exceedingly political, is used by politicians, and they themselves are political. What you saw with Fauci is a constantly changing scenario where I don't think he was ever right. And that's hard when you're making so many pronouncements to never be right. But that is his situation.

Speaking of never being right, there is news out of Canada that 600 unmarked graves were found in a former residential school for indigenous children. This is right after last month's report of 215 bodies found in another school; some of these bodies are children as young as two years old. I'll give you two guesses as to who ran the schools and who is responsible for those children, their burials, and the subsequent removal of the gravestones as evidence. If you said the Roman Catholic Church, you would be a winner. The Roman Catholic Church operated the schools and subsequently removed the markers so that they could destroy the evidence. People that were there said, 'The nuns were exceedingly mean to us. We had to learn how the Roman Catholic Church hated us even when we said their own _____. The nuns were condemning about our people and inflicted pain upon us.' Pope Francis, however, expressed pain over the discovery and pressed religious and political authorities to shed light on this sad affair. Why don't you read your own damned archives and know how your nuns and priests murdered these 800 children? What a despicable organization. If you are a Roman Catholic, you are immoral, ignorant, irrational, just disgusting, and absolutely reprehensible for this Church to even exist today.

I lived for a while outside Cincinnati, OH. One of the things I reported constantly was how distraught I was by the overwhelming presence of Roman Catholicism in Cincinnati. It has struck once again. Roman Catholic Priests who victimized children can no longer be prosecuted despite a new law eliminating the statute of limitation for child abuse. The State Attorney General says, 'The law now releases hundreds of Catholic priests who have many, many hundreds of credible cases being brought against them because of a technicality in missing a deadline to report them.' It is sad what we do politically to protect this disgusting organization.

Speaking of disgusting, during a House Education and Labor Committee hearing on the priorities of the Department of Education, the priorities of the Department of Education, Representative Mary Miller, a Republican from Illinois, ... asked the Education Secretary Miguel A. Cardona about education material that was _____ to students and their families entitled Confronting Anti LGBTQI+. "L" is for lesbian, right? "G" is for gay. I don't know why we need lesbian and gay; why don't we just say homosexual, but we don't; we have lesbian and gay, bi-sexual of course, transgender (boy, that's really confused), queer. I don't know what the difference is between queer, transgender, bi-sexual, gay and lesbian. I had thought that if you used the term 'queer' that you were being some kind of ... if you said "Oh, you are a queer" that was something you're not supposed to say. But they are trying to label themselves. What does "I" stand for? Well, this was Confronting LGBTQI+ Harassment in Schools. You have the "Plus" so we can be fully inclusive.

Miller highlighted on the example of harassment listed in the materials which depicted a teacher (this is harassment, now) telling a student who identifies as being nonbinary that there are only two genders. So, this student that identifies as being nonbinary was told there are only two genders. This teacher now was listed ... on campus as somebody who was harassing students. So, it is harassing to say there are two genders. There are more than two genders; there are males, there are females, and there are the confused. You can also say there are male, female, and liberal; so there are three genders. Since this is supposed to be the party of science, you might want to tell the party of science that genuinely, apart from our humor, that there are only two genders. There are some weird things that take place in bogs with some critters out there where they morph from male to female; I don't know how it all works, but this was in a small study where a student, I'm assuming we're okay using the term "human." I don't know if that's a pejorative or not, but this was a human who was offended that she was told there were only two genders of humans.

The congresswoman stating a genetic and biological fact about gender said, "Can you please clarify for the Committee (Secretary of Education) how many genders there are?" "I know what you're asking, but I'm not going get to the root of what you're asking," ___ responded, dodging the question. "I feel very strongly that as educators it is our responsibility to protect all students." Wait a minute. You're an educator and you want to protect students from answers? Is that what you're trying to protect them from? You want to protect them from the truth. We're going to protect them from knowledge. I think as an educator that should be our primary responsibility is to protect children from telling them the truth.

I have gone out of my way to tell our listeners how disgusted I am by reading Giuliani. When he came out with his comments on Islam following 911, the man did more damage to this country and to the world and almost as much by running interference for fundamentalist Muslims as the terrorists did themselves. Giuliani, however, has had his license to practice law in New York revoked not because of something he did with a client or a breach of any legal statute or for malfeasance in a courtroom or anything that has to do with his practice as an attorney. Attorneys are on rare occasion suspended for grossly inappropriate actions that harm their client or undermine the integrity of the courts. Giuliani didn't do any of those things. Cases resulting in immediate suspension also applies to attorneys who have substance abuse problems, serious criminal connections or who steal their clients' money. Giuliani didn't do any of those things, but yet he had New York, which is now left of Karl Marx politically where the judicial system in New York is not longer a judicial system but instead a political circus, that Karl Marx would probably think it's too liberal.

They wrote that Giuliani' decision is a reminder to the Bar that a lawyer's responsibility to act with integrity and honesty extends beyond the courtroom in any situation where a third person may be influenced or harmed. The judges made it clear that if Giuliani acting as the President's first lawyer willfully used fraud and deceit to undermine the election, the repercussions would be severe.

He was expressing a political conclusion. And that is now illegal for a lawyer? ... I don't want to go into the program about the fraud that took place in the last election because the left is apoplectic about saying, 'See, the court said there's no fraud.' The court didn't hear a single thing, and the liberals are saying the court has already decided ___. No. The ___ didn't hear a single case. Every single case that was brought before them they had reasons for saying they didn't want to hear the case, like you have no standing in this case. No, the courts didn't decide anything in this regard, and just like the Communists in China, all the evidence has subsequently been destroyed.

Researchers are now rewriting the story of human evolution. The analysis is the Neanderthals were far more closely related to Homo-sapiens than it was previously thought. In fact, there have been two quasi-Neanderthals, quasi-Homo-sapiens that have been found within the last two weeks. One of them in the Dragon Valley in China called 'Dragon Man' and another in a dig that took place outside a Tel Aviv concrete factory. I don't know if they call him 'Concrete Man' or not, but there are two things that we learned. One is that ‘Concrete Man’ was stocky, strong and had a brain the same size or perhaps slightly larger than ours. There is no way using, evolution as the model, that ‘Concrete Man’, ‘Dragon Man’, or whichever title you might prefer, should have failed and that Homo-sapiens which had smaller brains and were weaker succeeded. Also, this myth that Homo-sapiens fought against Neanderthals world-wide and wiped them out and there was no crossbreeding between them. Not so true because the oldest variation of Neanderthals found now is in Israel at least 20,000 years before Neanderthals are found anywhere else. They migrated from Israel where they lived in close contact with, and there is now a new intermediate species of Neanderthal Homo-sapiens that have been found.

It is my opinion that the single most despicable building in the world is the Colosseum. I was reading an article published by CNN Travel. It began, “The Colosseum was built by the Emperor Vespasian, with construction starting in 72 BCE, ending eight years later.” You’re a historian, Kirk, what’s wrong with that statement?

KIRK: They did it with Jewish, I mean..

YADA: Na, na, 72 BCE. Vespasian became Emperor around 69 - 70 BCE, right after Nero’s death. Nero died in 69 BCE. ... Vespasian became Emperor with Nero’s suicide sometime in 69 BCE and Vespasian became Emperor shortly thereafter. That’s the way the Romans ruled. The link between Vespasian and his son Titus, the next line reads “His son, Titus, inaugurated the Colosseum with 100 days of games, which included mock naval battles, execution of animals, and gladiator combat. According to ancient historian Eutropius, 5,000 animals were killed during those inaugural games.”

Guess what the article doesn’t mention. That the Colosseum was designed and built by Jewish slaves that were hauled off after Titus and Vespasian ransacked the Province of Yahuwdah showing that they had control over the Province of Yahuwdah, which they also had total control over in 33 CE because it was the Romans that nailed Yahowsha’ (the Christian Jesus) to their crucifixion stake. It is also the monies that the Romans stole from the Temple that was used to finance the construction of the Colosseum. So, you took the most magnificent and meaningful building in the world, Yahowah’s home in Yaruwshalaim, and you built the house celebrating pagan gods, torturous death and cruelty.

The article says, “Archaeologists, restorers, engineers and architects are among the experts who worked to bring the landmark as close to its former glory as possible.” What in the hell is wrong with us?

I’d like to return to where we were last week in our text. We had just read this from Acts, and without rereading this from Acts it will be hard to understand our rebuttal against it. It is on page 137 of Chapter 7, the Death of Religion in Volume 4 of Questioning Paul, which as I said is available at yadayahowah.com. This is now what Luke claims Shim’own (Peter) said:

“Gentlemen (andros), brothers (adelphos), it is possible (exesti – permissible and obligatory) after all to say (eipon – based on this account) to you in open public discourse, enjoying freedom of speech (parresia – without any concern or fear) with regard to (pros) and concerning (peri) the patriarch (patriaches – founder and forefather) David (ΔΔ – placeholder for Daud, a Greek transliteration for Dowd), that (hoti) he both died (teleutao – his life is finished and has come to a close) and was buried (thapto), and his tomb (mnema – grave) exists (eimi – and can be identified) among (en) us, even until (achri) this (houtos) day (hemera). (Acts 2:29)

For Jesus to live David must die. For Jesus to be the Messiah, David must have that title taken from him. For Jesus to be considered to be the Son of God, what Yahowah said of His son, David, has to be misappropriated. And so, recognizing that the Passover Lamb does not come back to life, instead they would bury David. This is the birth of Replacement Theology with all promises that Yahowah made to Dowd and to Yisra'el were misappropriated by Christianity, and if it were not for that misappropriation there would be nothing to Christianity because their Christ would no longer be a Messiah (he wasn't one), he would not be the Son of God (he was not that either). He would have been the Passover Lamb and he would not be returning. That belongs to Dowd as well all the many, many promises Yahowah made to Yisra'el would still be in tact on behalf of Yisra'el.

Being (hyparcho) therefore (oun) a prophet (prophetes), and knowing (oida) that (hoti) Theos (ΘΣ) swore (omnuo) an oath (horkos) that from out (ek) of the fruit (darpos) of his loins (osphys), would sit (kathizo) upon (epi) His (autos) throne (thronos), he foresaw (prooraio) and spoke (laleo) about (peri) the rising up and standing upright (anastasis) of the Christon (XPN – placeholder for Christon, which became Christ), because namely (hoti), He was not (oute) left behind and abandoned so as to remain (egkataleipo – forsaken and deserted) at (eis – inside and within) Hades (hades – the abode of the dead), nor (oute) did His flesh (sarx – physical human body) see (horao – experience) decay and decomposition (diaphthora – corruption).” (Acts 2:30-31)

Dowd was a prophet, therefore what he wrote is true, and because he was a prophet of Yahowah Christianity has no basis. It is Dowd who refers to Paul as the Father of Lies and the Son of Evil. The arguments that Dowd brings against his adversaries are actually named in the adversary and that name is Sha'uwl | Paul.

In this case, we will prove it in a moment, it does not say, “fruit of his loins.” It's actually a miniscule spec, a tiny aspect, a tiny part of what Dowd was. He's being reconstituted upon Dowd's second coming DNA, not semen. I did the math saying that if your claim to usurping all of the promises that Yahowah made to Dowd is sperm, then it's deluding, and the numbers are just staggering. By the time you go through the generations as to how little Dowd ... ____. It's just appalling. I actually did the conflicting chronologies that exist, and they are different by every possible way including the number of generations by a lot, and neither one is remotely accurate. Those bozos were absolutely clueless. That's not what it says. And that prophecy was not from Dowd.

News Flash! The 2 Shamuw'el 7 is not a Dowdian prophecy. Dowd didn't speak a word of the prophecy. Nathan was the prophet. Yahowah spoke to Nathan. To say he was a prophet, and this is what he said about Christou, you guys have to be idiots. The prophecy was spoken through Nathan not Dowd. I'll give anybody a billion dollars if they can find in 2 Samuel 7, which is where this alleged seed is spoken of, if you can find a Christou or a Christon or a Christus, Christ, Iesou Iesus, Jesus, or Yahowsha' there. Good luck with that.

It doesn't say, "upon His throne, he foresaw and spoke about the rising up and standing upright of the Christon. Further, I'm sorry but Yahowah's soul, not Christon, is the one that was taken into She'owl. It had nothing to do with Iesou, Christo, Christ; he didn't go to She'owl. God makes it really clear that He fulfilled the promise of Passover by placing His nepesh | soul into Yahowsha' and that the Set-Apart Spirit took Yahowsha's soul at the conclusion of Passover into She'owl. And it was Yahowah's nepesh | soul as an avatar, as a probe that endured that separation. It was the Set-Apart Spirit that once again freed Yahowah's soul to fulfill Bikuwrym. It had nothing to do with Yahowsha'. Yahowsha' is really important; he's the Passover Lamb. There is not a single word in any of this testimony about Yahowsha' fulfilling the roll of the Passover Lamb. There's no mention of Yahowsha's name and there is not a single mention of him fulfilling the role of the Passover Lamb which is the only thing relevant. And that he wouldn't suffer pain, wouldn't be forsaken or deserted, or that his flesh did not decay, his flesh ceased to exist and was meaningless; it was a symbol. To Yahowah Who is Spirit and to Yahowah's nepesh | consciousness, the physical body was far more useless as any other Passover lamb. Why? Because any other Passover lamb would have fed the people. This was just a symbol, and it was destroyed that night. Thank God it was destroyed. Can you imagine God saying I let them rip the flesh off my back and legs with their whips that the metal barbs that not only the force bruised my body to the bone but literally ripped the flesh off My body. Then I had every upper-body bone dislocated because they drove nails into my wrists and feet, and they tortured me under the most excruciating form of torture, and that body is what I want to bring back as a symbol. And by the way, I want you to keep Me nailed to that damned stick showing Me dead. There is no part of this that is even remotely accurate. If this (isn't)? accurate and this is Shim'own Kephas, the only person in that era who could even be considered in the league of Shim'own Kephas might be Yahowchanan. That's it. If the words of Shim'own Kephas are unreliable then there is nothing of Christianity that is reliable. If the book of Acts is unreliable, and this is an outright lie, then what's left? You don't have the foundation of your religion; it all goes away. All you have left are Paul's letters which are contradictory and insane with the dribble of a demon-possessed man.

It is hard to believe that they were this overtly committed to killing and burying "David." There is likely nothing in all the universe that they could have said more irritating to his Father – who just so happens to be God Almighty.

This is Paul's plot, one which Luke advanced by ascribing it to Peter. But every word of it is a lie – from the smallest details to its sweeping implications.

For example, unlike 'Abraham, Yitschaq, and Ya'aqob, who have always been the "forefathers" of Yisra'el, Dowd was not a patriarch. Dowd is the Son of God, the King of Yisra'el, and the Messiah – none of which apply to Yahowsha' as is claimed by Luke or Paul.

Yesterday was one of the most inspiring and difficult days I've ever had translating. I was translating Yasha'yah 55 for the third chapter on Taruw'ah because Yasha'yah 55, 56, 57, and the beginning of 58 we speak of in our prelude to Taruw'ah. Yasha'yah 55 is devoted to Dowd and his return, and to someone who Yahowah deploys to awaken His People with that message. It was something I translated and had to walk away from it. Then I decided this is what I'm going to write; this is what the words say, so let's deal with it.

In the words of Yasha'yah inspired by God it's Dowd who is returning. In fact, God goes so far as to say, 'If you want to understand what I'm offering, if you want to understand Me and want to benefit from any of this, then you need to understand what I'm offering you is what I offered Dowd. What did He offer Dowd when He called him His Son? ... If you come to agree with and accept this and understand My relationship with Dowd, I'm offering you the same thing. You become royalty and the Children of God. We are anointed by Him both in oil and in spirit. Enriched and empowered we can speak for Him (as even prophets)? It's the greatest promotion ever. So, when I read this, and I see these nincompoops trying to steal from Dowd, they have no idea here's Yahowah saying, 'If you come to understand who I am and what I'm offering I will do for you what I did for Dowd.' And these nincompoops rather than say yes, they are saying, 'Why don't we just bury Dowd, let his flesh rot and decompose.' That'll really be good. I guess if God's going to give us what He gave to Dowd, then we should expect the same.

Dowd was the Son of God, the King of Yisra'el, and the Messiah, none of which applied to Yahowsha' as claimed by Luke and Paul. Moreover, the location of Dowd's tomb, other than it is somewhere among the twelve acres which would have comprised "the City of Dowd," remains unknown. It remains unknown for a good reason. The last thing God wants is somebody worshipping a person. Do you want to ... go read his Mizmowr | Psalms. Go read the Proverbs. Go study his life and find out what Yahowah said to him and about him and did with him, and what He promised him, and what that means to us, and what the prophets had to say about it. That is like infinitely better than going and sitting by his grave; Dowd isn't in that grave.

According to Yahowah, Dowd's soul was put in a sleeplike state, (He tells us that several times, so I am going to believe it) awaiting his reawakening prior to his glorious return. His nepesh most assuredly is not "dead." Moreover, the prophecy was unequivocally about Dowd's soul, not his physical body as Luke and Paul are insisting.

We shared this last week,

"By way of contrast (ky – emphasizing this point while exposing the contrary position), You will not abandon Your association with (lo' 'azab – You will not neglect, reject, forsake, nor desert, never releasing (qal imperfect)) my soul (nepesh 'any – my consciousness, my inner person, character, and personality) with regard to Sha'uwl (la She'owl / la Sha'uwl – by approaching She'owl or on behalf of the goals of Sha'uwl), never allowing (lo' nathan – never offering nor giving, not permitting nor surrendering (qal imperfect)) Your Set-Apart One (chasyd 'atah – Your dedicated and loyal one, Your special and unique individual (adjective singular)) to see (ra'ah – to look upon, to experience, to gloat about, or to find pleasure in) corruption or degradation (shachath – what it is like to be corrupt or corrupted, useless or ruined, marred or blemished, dishonest exploitation or fraud, especially in association with the slime and the dungeon and pit in which such corrupt and ruinous captives are destroyed)." (Mizmowr / Psalm 16:10)

Therefore, Paul's and Luke's argument was predicated upon a false premise and then based upon a citation which does not apply, which they then misappropriated and misquoted. And this is just in the hypothesis stage of their delusion. The prophecy in Shamuw'el / 2 Samuel 7, to which Luke is alluding, does not predict the arrival of a Messiah who would be known as Christon | Christ. It does not speak of Yahowsha' or of "Jesus." Instead, just like the misappropriated Psalm, 2 Samuel 7 is all about Dowd | David – and only the Beloved from beginning to end. Sometimes you have to read things from beginning to end and not in the middle, just a clue.

This sweeping prophecy opens with Yahowah explicitly speaking to Dowd. By the way, last week I was told that in the show, 'Boy, you were really mad and wound up giving them both barrels. ... I'm sitting here translating Yahowah's depiction of how we should fulfill Taruw'ah. And for us every day is Taruw'ah; we live Taruw'ah. Shout a warning, and sing for joy. Share Yahowah's plan of reconciliation while warning people that they are headed to their own demise. The terms that Yahowah uses as He describes it are to scream at the top of your lungs, to show some passion for what you're saying, that time is short, that the message is being drowned out by the volume of human malfeasance from everybody from cancel culture to political correctness to multinationalism to Black Lives Matter, everybody having an agenda that has no basis in truth and they all have big microphones. God says, 'Shout it so they can hear it.' So, I think we're doing the right thing in being passionate about this.

The fact of the matter is that I do care that the Roman Catholic Church has tortured and murdered hundreds of thousands, probably millions of little children. I care! I care that there are 4 million people dead today because the Chinese government got caught doing something that was horrendous, covered up the evidence, and blamed everybody else. I care; you should care.

This sweeping prophecy in 2 Samuel 7 is the first one I dealt with 21 years ago. It's where 'asher' led me to write all these books and do all these shows. It's right there in the middle of it. I have translated that passage for every series that we have done and sometimes two and three times in the series. Each time something is triggered, and I go 'Oh wow. I get it!' I'm going to share this with you this time with fresh eyes.

Sometimes it takes learning something that doesn't seem to relate to understand what God is saying. In this case, the insight came from Mike. I had told the listeners that Mike was taking a fairly plain reading of what Yahowah was saying about the timing of Bikuwrym and where the English translations are all 'the day after the Shabat' from 'achar', but that's not what 'achar' means. When I figured out what 'achar' actually means (it's verbal root) I came to a different conclusion about what Yahowah was saying about this timing and the warning that God was giving us. It's that word that is pivotal in our understanding of 2 Samuel 7.

The other thing that is pivotal is to appreciate when Yahowah is giving a prophecy about Dowd in particular, He will speak to him and then of him. The big challenge people have in the prophecy is that it changes from "you" with Yahowah speaking of Dowd in second person to "he" with Yahowah referring to Dowd in the third person. And then it comes full circle right back around to Yahowah speaking to Dowd in second person. People can't understand that. It's really simple. Dowd brought up something that he felt all upset about which was Yahowah's out there in a tent and I've got this beautiful house. After Yahowah tells him he's just not thinking, He tells him what He's going to do for him, and in the midst of, it He tells us about it and then He returns to communicating directly to Dowd. It makes perfect sense.

This sweeping prophecy opens with Yahowah explicitly speaking to Dowd and then it concludes with God directly addressing Dowd once again.

Once again, if you want to understand the middle, it's a good idea to consider the beginning and the end. In the middle, Yahowah speaks to us of Dowd. Why? Because he's the single most important person in God's entire story. If you wanted to make a religion, the guy to make the religion over is Dowd. He's everything and more that has been falsely ascribed to Jesus. Dowd had a very simple father/son relationship with God, and I would advise to accept that.

Other than the conduit of this proclamation, it was Nathan, (something I guess Luke by not having read the beginning was unaware of) and the one offering it, Yahowah, no other name is mentioned in the entirety of the prophecy. Nathan the Prophet is the one Yahowah is speaking to; Dowd is the one being spoken to and about, and Yahowah is the One who is speaking. Those are the only three names.

The only thing which changes as we move through the prophecy is the audience. At times Yahowah is speaking to us of Dowd and at others, God is directly addressing His son. When you arrive at this transition in the 12th statement, this perspective will help you appreciate why God goes from referring to Dowd as "you" and then speaks of "he" when He, Yahowah, is speaking to us about him. God's return to "you" then occurs at the conclusion of the 14th statement.

I'm going to read this and feel free to interrupt at any time. This is probably the most important prophecy in the now 20-year history of Yada' Yah. Without this prophecy there is no _____. This is how we began. It shows our growth and understanding; how it has evolved over time. By evolving it has grown.

"It came to pass when the king sat down and relaxed in his home, because Yahowah had given him comforting respite from his adversaries, (7:1) that the king said to Nathan, the prophet, That's enough to destroy the citation ... sorry about that but facts are facts.

'Please look around. I live in a house of cedar, but the Ark of God sits within curtains.'
(Shamuw'el / 2 Samuel 7:2)

So, Nathan said to the king, 'Choose to go and do all that is in your best judgment for Yahowah.' (Shamuw'el / 2 Samuel 7:3)

But then that evening it came to be that the word of Yahowah came to Nathan. He conveyed, (7:4) 'Go and tell

This is the only other name now in this prophecy. We have Nathan, we have Yahowah, and now we have Dowd.

'Go and tell Dowd, My coworker, that this is what Yahowah says. "Why should you build Me a home to live in? (7:5)

That is SO PROFOUND! Why? Because sons are not responsible for building a house for their dads. Dads are responsible for building a for their families. God is saying, 'What's wrong with you? Don't you understand this relationship?' This is really simple stuff, but it goes right to the core of what the Covenant represents. So, when Dowd got the Covenant wrong (and this is the beauty of Yahowah), here's the most articulate, brilliant man in human history, God's Firstborn son, His chosen one, a prophet, ... His Mashyach, the King of Kings; he's everything, and yet he was wrong. Don't you love it? 'Why should you build Me a home to live in?'

Indeed, I have not lived in any house since the time that I lifted the Children of Yisra'el out of the crucibles of oppression in Mitsraym, even to this day. I have existed going about in a tent dwelling. (Shamuw'el / 2 Samuel 7:6)

I want to tell you something about God. We aren't going to impress Him by building a giant cathedral. He doesn't want us to build Him a house, thank you.

Anywhere along the way, that I have journeyed with the Children of Yisra'el, did I say a single word to any of the tribes of Yisra'el, My people, Yisra'el, whom I fed, asking, 'Why not build Me a house of cedar?' (Shamuw'el / 2 Samuel 7:7)

Therefore, say to My associate, Dowd, this is what Yahowah of the spiritual implements says, "I took you from the sheepfolds, from chasing after lambs, to be the leader over My People, over Yisra'el. (7:8)

If you are a Roman Catholic, I don't see Roman Catholic there. If you are a Protestant Christian, I don't see 'My people, you Christouicians.' ... We have Yisra'el, Yisra'el, Yisra'el, ... Yisra'el, with a Yahowah thrown in for good measure.

And I have been with you wherever you traveled. I have cut off all of your enemies, removing them from your sight, and I have made your name great, comparable to the names of the greatest on earth. (Shamuw'el / 2 Samuel 7:9)

Furthermore, I will appoint a place for My People, Yisra'el. And I will plant them there such that they may dwell in this place of their own and never have to move again.

That's called a prophecy ... because Yisra'el was in Yisra'el when this was stated, and Dowd was sitting in Yaruwshalaim in his home on Mount Mowryah. It wouldn't be long before Yisra'el was ... carried off as slaves and then Yahuwdah would follow. So, this is prophetic of a time that occurred in 1948.

KIRK: That's very similar to the warning Solomon gives them; he's talking to the people presenting the Temple. He's saying, 'When you return,' and they are all there. All you have to do is read it.

YADA: '..and they will never have to move again.'

It has been fulfilled now but it was future then; it was future for almost 3,000 years.

Neither shall the Son of Evil

That is the Christian Paul afflict them any more as will have been the case. (Shamuw'el / 2 Samuel 7:10)

Why would Yahowah specifically speak of the Son of Evil whom Yahowah disposes that Sha'uwil | Paul as the Son of Evil to Dowd in the Mizmowr? Because the ultimate ... because the Romans that became Roman Catholics have become the greatest foe to the Children of Yisra'el for the longest time. So, the Son of Evil and Christianity as a religion will afflict them any more

Which means Christianity will be wiped out.

And since the time that I instructed the Judges in conjunction with My People, Yisra'el, I have created for you a respite from all of your enemies.'

Moreover, Yahowah is boldly and publicly announcing for you that, indeed, He will act, engaging with you to create a family and home. (Shamuw'el / 2 Samuel 7:11)

That, my friends, is a prophecy because guess what. The Yisra'elites at that moment had a home; Dowd brought them in ; he unified them, they had a home, and t capital was Yaruwshalaim. No question about it. They had a home and yet Yahowah is saying boldly and publicly announcing for you that, indeed, He will act, engaging with you to create a family and home. (Shamuw'el / 2 Samuel 7:11)

Guess what. ... God would not build the home of Yahowah. Solomon did. So, He's not speaking of that time, but of the time that will commence here ... ten to twelve years. ... because the Family and Home of Yahowah that the Yisra'elites will never be taken out of again, that will no longer be afflicted by the Son of Evil is the Millennial Kingdom that Yahowah will establish with Dowd.

KIRK: Without this knowledge of Dowd, you can't bring him home. All this would be for naught. He's told you how it's going to get; it's going to be through Dowd. It's knowing about Dowd and what his role is...

YADA: Yahowah never acts alone, ever. Even during the creation account, all the work was being done by the Set-Apart Spirit. ... He never works alone. The first thing He does is celebrates when He creates humans because He created all of this to share with us. Yahowah doesn't work alone. The person He's going to reestablish Yisra'el with and rid Yisra'el of Christianity, to name one of many, is Dowd.

'Surely (ky), your days will be proclaimed and fulfilled (male' yowmym 'atah) after your relaxing rest (wa shakab) with your fathers ('eth 'ab 'atah).

Relaxing rest. ... not your death, but your relaxing rest.

Then I will rise up and take a stand (quwm) to bring to fruition what you have sown (zera') without hesitating ... without hesitating nor delaying ('achar) your approach to providing the way to the benefits of the relationship ('asher).

This shall be extracted and withdrawn, then delivered out of (yatsa' min) a small particle of your physiological nature (ma'ah)."

This is yatsa', by the way, folks. Yatsa' was the term that was corrupted to become exodus. Yatsa' is, 'I'm going to ... remove you ... from mitsraym, from political and religious oppression.

This shall be extracted and withdrawn, then delivered out of (yatsa' min) a small particle of your physiological nature (ma'ah)."

God is the actor here. Not ____.

This shall be extracted and withdrawn, then delivered out of ____

Although that's what they said in the New Testament.

out of (ma'ah) a small particle of your physiological nature."

Says the author of DNA.

And so (wa) I will establish (kuwn) his reign over his kingdom ('eth mamlakah huw')."
(Shamuw'el / 2 Samuel 7:12)

We've now made this transition and we're going to see Dowd in the Second Coming as Dowd looked; and he was handsome. He was a beautiful man. He's coming back, flaming red hair and all because God ____.

And so (wa) I will establish (kuwn) his reign over his kingdom ('eth mamlakah huw')."
(Shamuw'el / 2 Samuel 7:12, Announces Yahowah.

I am interrupting the flow of this prophecy regarding Dowd because I want you to appreciate something that has taken me twenty years to comprehend. Sometimes I think I'm the slowest ... in all of creation but it's taken me 20 ... by the way, I make no apology for that. It is as it should be. If you devote 8 – 10 hours a day six days a week, you ought to grow in understanding. If you didn't grow in understanding, what would the point be? The primary meaning of ky is not "when," but instead, "truthfully." The verb male' was scribed in the imperfect conjugation in this prophecy. So "surely" was ky, not "when." And then

'Surely (ky), your days will be proclaimed and fulfilled (male' yowmym 'atah) after your relaxing rest (wa shakab) with your fathers ('eth 'ab 'atah).

The verb male' was scribed in the imperfect conjugation. Therefore, it cannot be addressing something which is over, such as Dowd's previous existence. It's ongoing. Instead, in the imperfect, male' speaks of an everlasting fulfillment – thereby addressing Dowd's eternal reign as King of Kings. I just love it. It's so spectacular. If you take the time you say, 'Oh, I missed that.'

After Dowd's relaxing intermission between the two phases of his life, with shakab scribed in the perfect. Guess what. That made the rest is not ongoing, that there is a finite period of time that he is going to be resting. He has now an infinite fulfillment with a finite rest indicating that the rest is now over. Yahowah is going to intervene in the course of human events to quwm 'eth zera' | establish what Dowd has sown. Zera' speaks of seeds which, when sown, take root and grow. It serves as a metaphor for the tens of thousands of thoughtful words this man wrote on our behalf.

As I was translating Yasha'yah 55 I was confronted with some terms that are callously translated “rain” which don’t mean “rain” at all. It became obvious to me that what Yahowah was saying was that ‘I’m going to send down and pour out on behalf of My people.’ The verb is yara’ – my source of directions and instructions, my values and teachings. It’s the verb that underlies the Towrah. And so, I began to write. His words are the seeds which Yahowah expects to take fruit and grow when they are watered.

Then we transition from Yasha'yah 55 to 56 where Yahowah says, ‘Let me explain this to you here in terms of I’m watering the seed that I have planted. There isn’t any seed that I have planted that isn’t going to take root and grow as I intended. These seed are like My words. I have never spoken anything that was inconsistent with what I wanted or that didn’t turn out as I intended.’

When God uses “seed” you ought not think of those little things you plant in the ground and grow unless it has a metaphor for words that take root, and when cultivated, grow and are productive and fruitful, because that’s what He’s talking about. It serves as a metaphor.

Yahowah is not doing this “after” Dowd, but instead “without hesitating or delaying, and without equivocating.” That is the primary meaning of ’achar. Look up the verbal root.

We have this tendency to go to ’achar and say, ‘It means “last” or “end.”’ It’s not a stretch to say “last” “end” means “after.” Or in the case of Bikuwrym just take it one step further and say, “the day after.’ Hebrew nouns are explained through their verbal actionable roots. The actionable root of ’achar is “without hesitating, without delaying, without equivocating, without waiting,” which brought us to this very place, this very prophecy, to understanding it over the course of the past twenty years. More than anyone who has ever lived, Dowd embodies “the way to the benefits of the relationship.” God is going to deploy him without hesitation.

Yatsa’ is, as I shared, the operative term of the “Exodus.” It means “to withdraw, to extract, and to deliver.” It does not speak of a man’s seed, in the sense of sperm, gushing out of his manhood. Equally revealing, the primary meaning of ma’al is not “viscera,” but instead it describes “a minute, exceedingly small, particle which comprises something much larger.” That particle is Dowd’s DNA.

The Second Coming of Dowd will be manifest, not only through the return of his nepesh | soul, but also by reconstituting his DNA. This manifestation of the Ma’aesyah/Messiah will not only have Dowd’s authority and personality through his nepesh and God’s inspiration, but his appearance as well. God recognizes His son. The returning Messiah, Son of God, and King of Kings will be Dowd. And that is why Yahowah is now speaking of him to us, telling us what they will accomplish together. The prophecy continues,

“He, himself, shall reestablish and restore a home for My name. And, I will fashion and form the place of honor of his kingdom as an everlasting witness forever. (Shamuw’el / 2 Samuel 7:13)

I, Myself, will be a Father for him and he shall be My son. So when that which is perverted and twisted is associated with him, I will correctly reciprocate and argue on his behalf, deciding with him to chastise with the scepter of this man, and by assaulting so as to end the lives of the children of ‘Adam. (Shamuw’el / 2 Samuel 7:14)

Then My steadfast love and enduring mercy shall not be taken away from him in the manner that I rejected it being associated with Sha’uwl, whom, to show the way to the benefits of the relationship, I removed, abolishing before your appearance. (Shamuw’el / 2 Samuel 7:15)

Moreover, your house

He is speaking directly to Dowd after He’s made the most profound statement that you can find anywhere.

Moreover, your house will remain established, verified and true and your kingdom and reign will exist forever as an eternal witness in association with My presence.

Your throne and place of honor shall exist and be established forevermore.’ (Shamuw’el / 2 Samuel 7:16)

Consistent with all of these words and everything within this revelation, Nathan correctly conveyed them to Dowd.” (Shamuw’el / Listen to Him / 2 Samuel 7:17)

It begins and ends with Dowd. That is so profound and incredibly insightful and pertinent to what’s going to happen! When you know Yahowah’s love for this man and what He’s going to achieve with this man, it changes everything. I’m now a year and one half into these rewrites; I’ve got another year to go. It’s not a burden (it may be for those editing these books, but I think even they are enjoying learning). I’ve had ... all sorts of feedback from my friend JK, from Molly, and of course, Jackie; I think they are really enjoying it because they’re learning so much.

I’m doing these rewrites because it is in Observations when we tackled this prophecy again, and I began to understand this was about Dowd all the way through. Then we transitioned from that into Isaiah/Yasha’yah and we realized that Isaiah 9:6 and 7 are not speaking of Jesus but instead they are speaking about Dowd again.

Then we transitioned out of Yasha’yah’s proclamations about Dowd and into the Mizmowr and we’ve got God saying to Dowd, ‘You are going to return as God; you’re returning as brilliant as the sun. You are my son; I am your father. I’m anointing you as the Ma’aesyah. Now we realize that the root of Replacement Theology and the basis of Christianity started right here in Acts 2 with Dowd being dead and buried by the authors of the Christian New Testament so they could deliberately confiscate everything that God said about this man and create this edifice of Jesus Christ based on the promises that God made to Dowd. That’s the very basis of it. So, once we came to realize that we had to start all over and correct the record right from the beginning correctly positioning Dowd as God had conveyed him to us.

When I started with the Mizmowr and began to share a budding romance with Dowd (I’m not alone in this. There are a lot of women out there who if they are going to have a romance, this would be the ultimate human being.) The fact that he’s a flawed rascal, he’s going to be far better than Harrison Ford in either Indiana Jones or as Hans Solo. Dowd is the ultimate hero. He is imperfect, yet courageous, a man of tremendous character. He's brilliant and not only a great orator but a great singer; a courageous man that defends his people.

We began to realize just how important that Dowd was, and once we understood what it was about this man that caused God to love him so, it shaped our understanding of what God is trying to achieve within the Covenant and what we should be like if we want to be appreciated and used by God.

To a large degree the book of Yasha'yah exists to tell the story of Dowd. As we read it, we realize that God is going to do for us as He did for Dowd. ... important to know what He did for him. Go ahead.

KIRK: I remember a couple years ago when you were doing the shows and that all came to fruition, and you got to so many people and I go 'Why are you upset about this? This is like, wow, a dream come true; it makes everything work.

YADA: It makes everything work because they couldn't give up ... Lord Jesus ... So much of the Christian lies ... first they couldn't give up Paul and then they couldn't give up Jesus. Folks, Yahowsha' is not the Messiah, He's not the Son of God. He's the Passover Lamb, that's it. ... write down a ... there's not a single prophecy that mentions his name, not one prophecy or a single word written by him in any language much less a legacy in Hebrew. Compare that to Dowd and these magnificent Psalms and Proverbs and all of this material that has been shared for us throughout the Prophets beginning in Shamuw'el and running now all the way through to the very end he's the central figure in all of our history and the redemptive story of Yahowah.

As is with this man, so with his people. As with this man, so with the Children of the Covenant. So, it's really instructive for us to say, what did He say?

“He, himself, shall reestablish and restore a home for My name..” (Shamuw'el / 2 Samuel 7:13).

Well, guess what. There's going to be a home for Yahowah's name in us too because as with Dowd, so with us.

And, I will fashion and form the place of honor of his kingdom as an eternal witness forever. (Shamuw'el / 2 Samuel 7:13)”

I don't see us as having a kingdom, but by being God's children, we become royalty and we do get to sit on Yahowah's throne ... and while I don't want the responsibility that Dowd had, this too is being offered to us such that Yahowah is creating a place of honor for us and that His Eternal Witness will endure within us, and our souls become His home.

I, Myself, will be a Father for him and he shall be My son.

The same is true for us. Yahowah is our Father; we are His children.

So when that which is perverted and twisted is associated with him, Christianity. Right here, Acts 2, Paul's letters.

So when that which is perverted and twisted is associated with him,

The basis of Replacement Theology, which is the basis of the Christian religion,

I will correctly reciprocate and argue on his behalf, deciding with him to chastise with the scepter of this man,

The scepter is the rights to rule of this man.

and by assaulting so as to end the lives of the children of ‘Adam. (Shamuw’el / 2 Samuel 7:14)

He’s going to wipe them out. If you’re a Christian and you survive to this day, Dowd and Yahowah are going to extinguish your life, raiding the future Millennial Kingdom of the ...

I was wrong, there are actually five names in this story, not just Yahowah’s, ... not just Dowd’s, Yisra’el is ... throughout this as God’s people, and the villain is Sha’uwl. ... Paul.

whom, to show the way to the benefits of the relationship, I will remove, abolishing before your appearance. (Shamuw’el / 2 Samuel 7:15)

Moreover, ... your house will remain established, verified and true and your kingdom and reign will exist forever as an eternal witness in association with My presence.

Your throne and place of honor shall exist and be established forevermore.’ (Shamuw’el / 2 Samuel 7:16)

Consistent with all of these words and everything within this revelation, Nathan correctly conveyed them to Dowd.” (Shamuw’el / Listen to Him / 2 Samuel 7:17)

So, ... that’s what they missed ... stirring, inspiring, uplifting, life altering prophecy that God conveyed about His Son, the man He loves, respects and enjoys most of all, and they killed him and buried him. They did it using a prophecy that was the most uplifting of ... Yahowah’s relationship with this man. ... and the prophecy ... other ... than speaking... of the birth of Christianity speaks of its death. ... And this is Acts 2!

Listen, if Acts 2 which is still Yahowsha’s Disciple, if this is dead-ass wrong, what’s left? And not ... since it is this wrong, there is nothing left that you can say that is even remotely credible. And, as obvious as this is, how in the hell is it that in 2,000 years there’s not a single Christian cleric that says, ‘Wait a minute. Dowd wasn’t the prophet here. He doesn’t speak about a Christou. Dowd’s not dead. What in the hell are they talking about here?’ None of this is true. Why isn’t there a single Christian with the intellect and character to say this is a lie? The same reason that the community of scientists ... say, ‘It came from the Wuhan Virology Institute, stupid.’ You know, religion ... is a group thing. Politics is a group thing. The gang mentality of man is a horrible beast.

So, here we are, easily one of the most profoundly revealing prophecies of all time. It’s near and dear to my heart because it’s the only reason we are here. We wouldn’t be here without the prophecy. It's near and dear to me because of how I have translated this for every book series thus far, each time managing to grow in understanding. Two times ago I was jubilant thinking, 'Wow I get it. This is so profound.' It was exciting. Then I remembered translating it again in Coming Home and saying, 'Wow. I thought it was profound before; now it's even more magnificent.' Then I'm rewriting the Yada' Yah series and translate it again and say, 'How did I miss that? Look how much more exciting and clear this is that the only subject being discussed here is Dowd.' And then after having finished the Bikuwrym Chapter and learning about 'achar and its verbal root, I come at it again, the glasses come off the forehead and drop to the floor along with the jaw, and I say, 'How did I miss this? This is so uplifting, profound, and relevant to our lives, so central to God's story and His Covenant and His plan of what's going to happen in the near future.' What a wonderful gift to have the first passage we're drawn to take this ...

This present translation is in the 7th Chapter of, and I wrote it for Taruw'ah of which there are three chapters in Volume 5 of Yada' Yahowah, which is Mow'ed | Appointments. This chapter that we're sharing from right now, that's where it was written for, but it became so profoundly appropriate because:

1. It's a condemnation of Luke's loyalty to Paul and the corrupt story that he was telling that it had to be added to Volume 4 of that.
2. Also, because there's a reason that Yahowah is arguing against the Father of Lies, the reason that ... the Son of Evil, the reason that he is specifically named Sha'uwl as the Adversary that he's going to be attacking has been the greatest foe in the history of Yahowah's people, Yisra'el, the Roman Catholic Church and Christianity thereafter.

The way that our review of that material ends is by citing and accurately translating what Yahowah says that is appropriate, and what we find is that in the end it actually concludes not with a condemnation of Christianity, which has already been destroyed by this time. It ends by condemning Judaism.

So, what God is ultimately saying is, 'Yes, Christianity has been a satanic menace to My people; I'm going to wipe them out. But the biggest foe of all to My people hasn't been an outside influence; it's not Christianity, Islam, Socialist Secular Humanism, Progressives in academia or the media. The biggest for Yisra'el has been for the last 2,000 years is rabbis; is Judaism.

The rabbis will tell you that you can't even be Jewish unless you are practicing the Jewish religion, yet being "Jewish" is an ethnicity. God clearly denounces Judaism as being the single, greatest foe to the ethnicity of Yahuwah and Yisra'el. So, the way ... that it ends actually says, 'Christianity is very bad and here it is proven that it is built on a false foundation, but that's not your greatest foe. If you are going to come home to Me, the people you need to renounce are the rabbis.' God says systematically, 'This is what they've done to you. So, why after all of this you still trust them and not trust Me?'

A good question that we'll get to that because this is the chapter that will take us there. We've got a lot more material to go through, and I want to try to get to the end of this chapter. The difficult thing is this is one of the most profoundly important translation I've ever done, Yasha'yah 55 over these last few days. You can say how can you not want to share that? But if we jump ahead to that we'll keep on going there ... There's just so much great material, you'll never run out of the longest running story in human history, Yahowah's revelation to His people, and we get a front-row seat because He's retelling His story to us, so we have ... God actually explains why He's telling His story to us ... the fact is that His people have a propensity not to listen to Him, and it's largely the fault of the rabbis, so we are going to do all we can to discredit them in very harsh terms so that the 80% of Yisra'elites who are only modestly religious or not religious at all might be open to Yahowah's calling.

We are doing it for you, even though there are not many of you listening now. We are coming very close to the ... You look at Yahowah's metaphors; grain, olive oil, and wine. The all have one thing in common, the ... the grain, and the olive must be crushed and put under pressure before they are usable. Yisra'el, you have been equated to these things, the grapes/vineyard, the standing grain, and the olive. That is the nature of the Time of Ya'aqob's Troubles, a time of great pressure, testing and oppression that will lead to the most exquisite wine, the most beautiful of all anointing oils, and bread that is ____.

May Yahowah bless. We look forward to being with you next week. I'm not going to apologize for being on a rant because our time is short and God wants us to awaken His people, to share this message with the world, He wants us to get His people's attention, so this is a message we are deeply passionate about because God is deeply passionate about it.

We do want to do a program on the Apostle's Creed. I don't want to start it now because ... I know you did an analysis on the Articles of Faith and the Apostle's Creed, which by the way had nothing to do with the Apostles because it was written ... around 330 ... Apollos ... it had to do with Eusebius and had to of course bury the Arians who knew enough to know that they were ... a god out of a man, and that it was probably a bad idea. We'll go through it and I'm sure we'll have fun with it.

May Yah bless one and all. We look forward to being with you at this time next week. Shalown.
