Please Note: I have transcribed this to the best of my ability. Sound bites of parties speaking simultaneously and those which were inaudible to me have been deleted from the transcript. If I guessed at a word, it was followed by ()? A ____ (blank line) indicates I could not understand the word or phrase and three periods ... indicate an interruption in the dialogue of one party by another. Thank you for your understanding. MK

Good evening, welcome to Yada Yah Radio. We have both JB and Kirk with us. For those of you who endured last week's program I apologize for any goofs I may have made. I was struggling with COVID. I did get Omicron. The thing that scared me the most about it was the primary symptom is brain swelling and therefore headaches. The virus tries to infect your brain and your brain tries to push it off and the result is swelling of the brain. I had three days of debilitating headaches. That's over and each day it gets progressively better. A little frightening is that three days after I'm over all the symptoms I am still in slow motion, my brain is still swollen, and I am not processing information at its normal pace.

Last week I talked at length about Omicron and said Omicron could be the best news we've had in a long time. I don't know that for certain, but I do know that it cannot be stopped. In the United States Omicron is now being reported as a million new cases a day. It's so funny because this time a year ago and during the months prior to the election the Democrats were having a conniption fit pounding Trump for how irresponsible he was for after a year of the virus we're still experiencing 50,000 – 70,000 new infections daily. We would long for the good old days of 70,000 when a low day now is 750,000. They are all bemoaning him saying he hasn't been able to ramp up testing fast enough. If you want to get tested today in most places you must wait four days, and by the time you've waited four days you are already on the mend from Omicron.

They are reporting now a million new cases a day; that's probably 10% of the total because no one in their right mind is going to be tested. Why would I want to wait four days on a virus with an average life span of five days knowing that the quarantine time is five days and that there's nothing I need from them or what they are going to offer me? What's the purpose? The actual infection rate is not a million a day. It's a least 10 million a day. The good news is that its not putting people in the hospital at any significant rate except for the unvaccinated. Darwin ultimately prevails in the end. It is not killing anyone except the unvaccinated; again a testament to Darwin being right in terms of evolution and not macro evolution. This is a disease that is capable and appears like it is going to give those who get it super immunity which is better than the vaccine currently because while the vaccine is keeping those who get any variant of COVID alive and out of the hospital, it is not keeping them from getting Omicron. The one thing that is more likely to starve off the virus is herd immunity where more of us get it and survive. The only fly in that ointment is we still don't know how long the antibodies will last because Omicron has been around for just a month, at least outside of South Africa.

Something exceedingly troublesome about this is how the CDC, the health agencies and leaders around the world are fighting this as if they were fighting the last war. It's like the United States being prepared for WWII by building more battleships. We're great for preparing for the last war, not knowing they are never the same. That's just not going to work this time. The only thing we can do this time is to let it go and recognize there will be significant economic destruction even without the idiots in our government stepping in because so many people are out of work.

There was a series of speeches in Washington calling the idiocy that occurred this time last year in the US Capitol following a Trump rally an insurrection. Every one of the media spokespeople referred to it as an insurrection as if they had never read a dictionary. An insurrection is "an organized and usually violent act of revolt or rebellion against an established government or governing authority as a nation or political entity leading to revolution". You can look at, as many of us did on January 6, what happened and realize the overwhelming preponderance of those people were about as fit to engage in an armed insurrection as a couple of (Bolshoi)? ballerinas that weigh in at 250 pounds. They were dressed in ridiculous garb, armed with cell phones and were occupied with taking selfies and milling around. They were no more involved in an act of armed insurrection as the man in the moon. I'm not sure that any of the Trumpites who marched on the United States Capitol had a weapon. Some picked up a broomstick, some a rostrum, some picked up a barricade, and if that's the new definition of "armed", then I guess we're going to have to rewrite the Second Amendment. It's no wonder that people don't trust their government when the empowered party speaks on what happened on January 6 and they say this was a greater threat to the nation than was 911, where 3,000 people died because Muslims flew planes into our buildings. "This was a greater threat to the American democracy," they said, "than the war of 1812." The favorite was, "The greatest threat since the Civil War." Which wasn't a threat to democracy at all; it was only a threat to the Union existing of two groups of states. These people are totally lost, irrational, and ignorant. It is indeed troubling to hear that sort of thing. Do not take my recount of this as my endorsement of Trump; you will not get it from me.

I think Trump is an egomaniac and he himself did tremendous damage when he did not ask those people to leave sooner. I also think that Trump's claim of having had the election stolen, while likely true, if you can't explain how it was stolen, which he can't, then he ought not make the claim. I said immediately after the election that it appears obvious, but there's no longer any proof because of the way the states destroy all the ballots immediately after they are certified, which is within a week or two of the election, and there is no court that wanted to take up the challenge, there is no court that ruled if the election was honest and fair, there was no court that claimed a defendant had grounds for suit, like Texas couldn't bring suit against Pennsylvania. That's all they determined. Even though the media is in lock step saying that it is untrue that the election was stolen and that is a lie, they don't know that. There's no proof of that at all. The Democrats are trying to make universal that you might as well stop voting because it won't make any difference anymore. I don't vote anyway, and I'm just commenting on this.

The reality is that the swing states that had Trump ahead until the very end were states that all had their administrators change the manor in which somebody could register and vote such that you didn't have to register a month or even a week prior to the election, you didn't have to show proof of your identity, you didn't have to go through a system of checks and assurances that you were not voting in person and then on a mail-in ballot. There was no way to validate that mail-in ballots were from live people vs. dead ones or from any person at all. And that's what they want in voting rights is literally no proof of anything so that anybody can vote, or somebody can vote as many times as they want.

There were also lots of comments about America being the longest example of democracy. America is not a democracy; it's a representative government. The problem with democracy as was founded by the founding fathers which said if you allow a democracy you will end up having the "have nots" stealing from the "haves" to the point that the "haves" will no longer have anything to give nor the incentive to do anything. And that's where we are as a nation.

Speaking of stupid, one of my favorite clowns in the world is Pope Francis. He is the epitome of stupid, and is especially so when he speaks of God or economics; he is a Communist whose economics are particularly out of touch with reality. Pope Francis, who has no children, said that many couples do not have children because they do not want to. They might have one, but they have domestic animals, two dogs and two cats. He said the decision to not have more children is a form of selfishness and he berated anyone who did not have many children. This is a man who is the head of an organization where all of those in the organization have zero children.

When this came out years ago during Shattering Myths, Liberals decided it was inappropriate to keep homosexuals from being scout masters and from being involved with the Boy Scouts. The Boy Scouts Board of Directors said, "Wait a minute. We've got a bunch of very vulnerable boys here. We're not telling homosexuals they can't be homosexuals but having them be leaders in the Boy Scout organization is not a good idea." You can't say that in America, so browbeaten into it the Boy Scouts acquiesced and allowed any homosexual to be a Scout Master. So the Boy Scouts went into bankruptcy. There are claims of boys being abused by the Boy Scouts leadership to the tune of 54,000 survivors of abuse victims cast their ballots. So there are 54,000 known victims, and while the Boy Scouts offered 2.7 billion dollars in bankruptcy, which means they sell everything to resolve that, the victims said, "That's not enough." The total number of actual claims is 82,000.

So the Liberal media, the Progressives, demand that the Boy Scouts have homosexual leaders, and they do. Now there are 82,000 boys who have been sexually abused, the Boy Scouts is in bankruptcy, and there is not a single Liberal who has said, "Oops. Maybe we were wrong. So sorry about that. We'll be more careful next time." Now that's the difference in what should be a Conservative and what is a Liberal, personal responsibility and accountability. There is none among Liberals.

That's my recap of the news. I think we are on the 3rd or 4th chapter on Kipurym in the 3rd Yada Yah volume devoted to the Mow'ed Miqra'ey. We devoted so much time and attention to Kipurym because it turns out that it is the most prophetic event in the Towrah, Prophets and Psalms.

I am retranslating the 119th Psalm and as we move through the letters the number one subject being discussed is Dowyd's return to Yahowah and Yahowah's disappointment in how religions have misappropriated the promises He made to Dowyd in giving them to another. It is all addressing Yowm Kipurym, the day of return. It explains in the "Hey" chorus of the 119th Psalm and even explains in Zakaryah 12 where it says, "They will look upon Me whom they have pierced, and they will mourn for me as one who mourns for an only child.” The 119th Psalm explains that. They are going to look upon Yahowah who fulfilled Pesach because that is part of Replacement Theology because the Christian Jesus inherited all of the promises to Dowyd and he disinherited the one attribute that was the most important, the Passover Lamb. So they are going to recognize that indeed Yahowah as Yahowsha’ was the Passover Lamb and then they are going to mourn for Dowyd because of what they have done to besmirch his credibility to rob him of his credentials.

While I’m sharing this, and again I’m a little slow in getting over COVID so I have a good excuse, I did write it down at the beginning of the program. You’ll notice there is a new look and feel to Yada Yah Radio. It’s now more integrated with the new Yada Yah look and feel. You will notice that Steven on his You Tube Channel, if you go to the very top of today’s program in the chatroom, there’s a link to his site there so you can see what he’s doing. He’s come up with a marvelous way of presenting the textual support with an audio track for our books so that you get the best of both worlds. You can read along with highlighted text while listening. Steven has done a marvelous job and there is a link to his channel from the Yada Yah Community web page.

Dee, Leah and Jacki have been working to create social media for Yada Yahowah, something I had completely avoided for several reasons. I’m not fond of the artificial nature of social media and I didn’t want the distraction. I think God’s people are better served if I continue to translate and comment on what I’m learning, so I couldn’t get involved personally. Another reason was that I never felt that we were ready and that more needed to be available to people; we needed to have our act together better than we do now. For me that began to change when Leah told me that she wouldn’t give one of my earlier books to her Jewish friends and that I should rewrite them and that the books needed a unified look. We’ve now rewritten 21 or 22 volumes, all with a new and unified look.

An Introduction to God, as it was rewritten, is so much better a place to begin, and the first two volumes are enormously powerful with new translations and commentary and are profound in what they reveal as are the three chapters on the Mow’ed Miqra’ey. Then Allen had done a tremendous service to us all by recognizing that Clarion was not going to win the war against Amazon and that no publisher was going to prevail against Amazon, that it was going to become the de facto publisher of the world and that print-on-demand books were going to become the dominate form both in electronic form, which costs just pennies, and now hardback. It is an enormous investment of time; talk about a labor of love. Jacki, who is so perfectly suited for it, took over the responsibility and we now have books that are consistent, and at this point with new material something is profoundly changed. We are ready and can say, “Yahowah, we’ve done this job as well as we can do it. It’s ready.”

So my wife, Jacki and Dee said, “Let’s take on the challenge of integrating social media with Yada Yah. So if you look, there are three links at the top of this page; there’s a new Yada Yahowah Facebook, Twitter and Instagram profile that they are moderating and adding to and will soon be linked from the Yada Yahowah site that David has so beautifully presented and enabled. So we have come up with a family approach to this that is ready, and we can finally say, “Yahowah we have done as You have asked. It’s ready. Let Your children see it.” Today the primary way of communicating something, making them aware of it, and broadening the awareness is through social media. And it's now all integrated together because we are working together as a family on this.

We still have wonderful contributions of sites like JB's Yahowah Beryth site which has the full presentation of the audio archives of what we've done as well as BlessYahowah.com which have Jacki and Scott working on it to bring it back to life and up to date on what we've learned. So I just wanted to bring all that to your attention, even though it's a bit of a distraction before we begin our ... But that's why we're here.

I realize there are many in the Covenant Family who look forward to Shabat, as we do, so that we have the opportunity for family discussion about the Towrah, Prophets, Yahowah and His family and what is going to happen in the near future so that we are comforted together and are equipped to share what we've learned with others. But that's not the main reason we do this; let's never lose sight of the fact we all serve for a primary purpose and that is to fulfill Yahowah's will. He wants to restore His relationship with His people who have been blind for a long time, who have been misled by their rabbis and political leaders. It is our mission to help them understand how their religion has misled them and how Yahowah is calling them home. Since that is our primary mission, it is important that we continue and use every tool available to serve as Yahowah's Nes.

This is now the beginning of the 4th chapter on Kipurym. Kipurym means "to reconcile". It is the Day of Reconciliations. It is about Yahowah coming home. You'll find it in volume six of Mow'ed, Appointments of Yada Yahowah. The Byline is appropriately called Coming Home which is what Yahowah is celebrating. We have now gone through all of Zakaryah bringing us up to the 13th chapter because all of Zakaryah is devoted to this single day, the Day of Reconciliations.

More than anything, Yahowah wants His people to know the truth. It is the only cure for what ails them and the only way to survive the onslaught which is headed their way. There's not much talk in Jewish circles of what Yahowah calls eth tsuwr Ya'aqob, the Time of Ya'aqob's Troubles, and that is where we are headed. The only antidote for that is the truth, Yahowah's testimony.

“During that day (ba ha yowm ha huw') there will be (hayah) a resource opened eliciting a response (maqowr patach – a fountain and wellspring which is released, flowing for all to hear and respond) for the House of Dowd (la beyth Dowyd – for a united Yisra'el representing the Family of the Beloved) and for the inhabitants of Yaruwshalaim (wa la yashab Yaruwshalaim) to reconcile having been misdirected and wrong (chata'ch – to purify those who had previously missed the way) and to purge detestable corruption (wa la nidah – to resolve being defiled and filthy because of being common and polluted, immoral, idolatrous, especially impure).” (Zakaryah / Remember Yahowah / Zechariah 13:1)

This is the theme of Psalm 119, of Yasha'yah from beginning to end, and Yirma'yah/Jeremiah, Zakaryah and Mal'aky. It all boils down to God is going to provide a resource for His people. If this isn't it, I'm sure going to be the happiest guy alive for something to come along that's better, more complete, more accurate, and compelling. And if something comes along that is more complete on behalf of Yahowah, and more compelling, then we'll probably applaud and go on a vacation and thank Yah for having provided it. But until that happens, and I don't think it's going to because we've been at this now for 21 years, you're not going to find any other place that systematically explains why Yahowah's name is Yahowah, what each of the seven Mow'ed Miqra'ey mean relative to the Covenant and the reconciliation of Yahowah's People, or how the timeline of 6 plus 1 from 6,000 years ago when 'Adam and Chawah were kicked out of the 'Gan 'Eden | Garden of Great Joy to the time we return to it. You'll find no other place that recognizes that Dowyd is the Messiah, the Shepherd, the Son of God, the King of Kings. He is the one who is returning with Yahowah, that Yahowsha' is the Passover Lamb. There are thousands of insights that we have provided to God's People doing Taruw'ah as it should be done also explaining to them how their religion has led them astray. That is what Zakaryah 13:1 is describing.

“During that day (ba ha yowm ha huw')

Which is now this day

there will be (hayah) a resource opened eliciting a response (maqowr patach – a fountain and wellspring which is released, flowing for all to hear and respond) for the House of Dowd (la beyth Dowyd – for a united Yisra'el representing the Family of the Beloved) and for the inhabitants of Yaruwshalaim (wa la yashab Yaruwshalaim) to reconcile having been misdirected and wrong (chata'ch – to purify those who had previously missed the way)

Which is 99.99999% of Yisra'elites.

and to purge detestable corruption (wa la nidah – to resolve being defiled and filthy because of being common and polluted, immoral, idolatrous, especially impure).” (Zakaryah / Remember Yahowah / Zechariah 13:1)

For Yisra'elites | Yahuwdym to reunite with Yah they must resolve the problem of their religion; it's filthy, polluted, and immoral. That's what this says.

This should not be a surprise. Zakaryah is in every God-forsaken bible, and they can read it; even in the Tanach, Jews can read it. Why is there no response?

Yisra'elites are being afforded a “maqowr patach – resource which is being released for all of them to hear and respond to.” Keep in mind the Towrah, Prophets and Psalms are written in God's language of revelation – Hebrew albeit very different from today's Hebrew. Although it is based upon it, it is far from it. It is written in a Hebrew that is exceedingly easy to translate. I may not be very fast at it because there are many nuances you are trying to ascertain and insights to derive, but the language itself is not difficult and is comprised of pictographs that help us understand what is being communicated. The realization that the language spoken by more Jews than any other is English, overwhelmingly so. There are 4 or 5 million Jews that speak Hebrew, but not as their primary language because about a million of those and most religious Jews in the United States don't speak Hebrew; they speak Yiddish which is a blend of Germanic and Slovak languages with an ancient Hebrew word root out of Babylon. The lingua franca of the world, the language spoken by more people worldwide than any other is English. So this message being delivered which God has told us numerous times is going to be in a tongue that was unknown at the time of this revelation needs to be English if all those potentially receptive Yahuwdym are going to hear it.

Its purpose will be to help those comprising the House of Dowd to “chata’ch – reconcile the fact that they have been misled and are thus wrong.” And that would include how wrong Judaism has become. Judaism started off bad and got worse. You will find as you read Volumes 2 and 3 of An Introduction to God, rabbis and Judaism are responsible for the abuse Jews have endured not only for the advent of Christianity which has become the most abusive, anti-Semitic, longest enduring menace to God’s Chosen People in human history because they did not acknowledge that Dowyd was the Messiah and Son of God, and they did not accept that Yahowsha’ was the Passover Lamb. And because they did not clarify any one of those points, nor did they admit that Yahowah was God, the religious acknowledging a “Jesus Christ” who took Dowyd’s titles as Son of God and Messiah (of which Jesus was neither, nor was he named Jesus Christ) was born disavows any purpose which was to serve as the Passover Lamb, and for that religion to legitimize itself had to delegitimize Jews and turn them into the enemy.

Had rabbis not screwed up on every possible front it, would never had an attraction. Just as rabbis are responsible for Islam. Mohammad’s diatribe would never have made it out of Mecca successfully nor taken root in Medina if it had not been for the fact that rabbis sold Mohammad Talmud readings which gave his Qur’an a veneer of authenticity even though it’s still the dumbest book ever written. So they are responsible for bringing this menace upon themselves.

There’s more to this than even that. I said something very controversial last week and will repeat it now. The reason for nasty stereotypes against Jews, of them being greedy, dishonest, of their religion being even demonic is because that is an apt depiction of rabbis. The rabbis have given birth to the basis of those conspiracies. Now that does not exonerate the numskulls that have advanced them. In fact God is going to condemn with a seven-times retribution those that advance the lies of the Protocols of the Elders of Zion. The only reason that the lies seemed credible is that rabbis represented the very generalizations that were being wrongly attributed to the people as a whole.

The most popular author within the Haredim, the Ultra-Orthodox Jews, which is the only form of the religion that is acknowledged and empowered in Israel, Chaim Walder, a therapist, is accused of raping 20 or more little girls who came to his office to receive counseling. There is no mention by the rabbis of caring at all for the victims but only trying to salvage the credibility and the income stream of this exceedingly perverted individual. This is who they have become.

When my wife was very young, had a concern with Judaism that it didn’t make any sense. The Patriarch of the family, her grandmother said, “I’ll tell you what. I’m not the right person to answer because I think they are all creeps, a fraud and money-making scheme. But I’ll tell you what you should do so that I don’t prejudice you; go meet with the rabbi and ask him these questions.” So she did. The first thing the rabbi did was put his hand up her skirt. That’s who these creeps are. They ought to be exposed and condemned. Yahowah is going to annihilate every single one of them upon His return because they are wrong, because they have misdirected His people, and because of their detestable corruptions. This is who God is talking about. If you are a Jew and you want to be a Yahuwdym | Beloved of Yah again, the first thing you have to do is to acknowledge that the rabbis are nidah – “corrupt, defiled, filthy, immoral, all things disgusting”.

“And it shall come to exist (wa hayah) on that day (ba ha yowm ha huw),’ prophetically declares (na’um) Yahowah (YaHoWaH – an accurate presentation of the name of ‘elowah – God as guided by His towrah – instructions regarding His hayah – existence) of the spiritual implements (tsaba’ – of the vast array of heavenly messengers), ‘I will uproot and banish (karat – I will sever and remove) that which is associated with the names (‘eth shem – the designations, renown, fame, and reputations) of the vexing idolatrous images and displeasing objects of religious veneration (‘atsab – manmade relics used during worship and images of reverence; from ‘atsab – to vex, displease, harm, and grieve) from (min) the Land and Earth (‘erets – this region and the world) so that they are no longer recalled, proclaimed, or remembered (wa lo’ zakar – no longer invoked, spoken about, or mentioned) ever again (‘owd – forevermore).

Moreover (wa gam), those who claim to have been inspired such that they speak for God (‘eth ha naby’ – men who profess to be spiritual spokespeople and who speak as authoritative messengers regarding the past or future), along with the infamous and religiously defiling spirit (wa ‘eth ruwach ha tuma’ah – in addition to the notoriously inappropriate and completely unsuitable, unclean and unethical spirit), I will invalidate and banish (‘abar – I will repeal and punish, disrobing with great animosity) from the Land and Earth (min ‘erets).” (Zakaryah / Remember Yahowah / Zechariah 13:2)

It doesn’t seem that God is very religious, or that He wants to save everybody, does it? The reality is that just as God cut a Covenant for those who wish to accept His terms and conditions. He’s going to cut away everything that is religious, all those vexing, idolatrous images and names which would include HaShem, Adonai, G-d, and everything that the rabbis have to say because they call God everything except Yahowah. It will include Jesus, Christ, Allah. All religious images and everything that has been memorialized will be destroyed as well as the hosts that admire them and promote them. They will no longer be promoted, remembered or recalled.

Moreover (wa gam), those who claim to have been inspired such that they speak for God (‘eth ha naby’ – men who profess to be spiritual spokespeople and who speak as authoritative messengers regarding the past or future), along with the infamous and religiously defiling spirit (wa ‘eth ruwach ha tuma’ah – in addition to the notoriously inappropriate and completely unsuitable, unclean and unethical spirit), I will invalidate and banish (‘abar – I will repeal and punish, disrobing with great animosity) from the Land and Earth (min ‘erets).” (Zakaryah / Remember Yahowah / Zechariah 13:2)

This dichotomy on this day is unlike any other. When Yahowah fulfilled Pesach both in Mitsraym and later in Yaruwshaliam there were people in both places He was attempting to save and those He knew must die. While He did eliminate the first-born sons of those who had been oppressing His people in Mitsraym, when He fulfilled Pesach in Yaruwshaliam He did no such thing. He quietly went about His business fulfilling the promises that He had made.

When He returns on Yowm Kipurym it’s an entirely different story; He’ not eliminating a few sons here and there, but every religious person on Earth. Everyone who has come to attack Yaruwshaliam and Yisra’el will be instantly destroyed. We’re not going to have any religious images, or any religious proponents left after Yahowah’s return. All the religious, whether they are waiting for their messiah to return or the second coming of their god, they are all going to be horrified. This is a day when there will be a remnant of Yisra'el, of Yahuwdym, who are going to look upon Yahowah, recognize that He served as the Pesach Lamb, that He is returning with His son Dowyd, and that they are going to rejoice. But the vast majority of people on Earth will cease to exist, and everyone who claims to speak for God, who promotes anything idolatrous, vexing, displeasing, or religious is going to be gone. It is the only way we can return to the Gan 'Eden; we can't return to the Garden of Great Joy if there's any trace of religion. There was no religion in 'Eden, no governments, police, conspiracies, politics, patriotism, and no lies. And then, of course, one day Yahowah allowed HaSatan, this infamous, evil, religious spirit into the Garden and he twisted the words of Yahowah, misrepresented them such that Chawah, who obviously wasn't comfortable with 'Adam's relationship with Yahowah and therefore wanted to be like God, she partook, misquoted God, and 'Adam did not respond wisely. He evidently had not counseled his wife as to what was appropriate and when she made a bad decision, he didn't try to correct her but followed along instead. It was a horrible decision, and at that very moment 'Eden no longer existed. It was a place that revealed a model as to what we can anticipate, and it will be restored, but there has been no Garden of Great Joy for the past 6,000 years.

This prophecy is akin to Yahowah's statement in Howsha', whereby He says that upon His return, He will never have to endure "Ba'al | the Lord's name or title spoken again."

God cares so little for religion, there is no standalone Hebrew word to even express the concept. For those who believe that God has ordained their faith, this deficiency in terminology should be troubling.

While there is no Hebrew word for religion, this does not keep God from denouncing the practice. 'Atsab describes "displeasing objects of religious veneration." Therefore, Yahowah is removing anything and everything which "elicits worship."

Is 'atsab one of the words you analyzed, Kirk?

PLEASE NOTE I DO NOT HAVE ACCESS TO KIRK'S STUDY MATERIALS; THEREFORE I CANNOT GUARANTEE WHAT I HAVE WRITTEN IS CORRECT. THANK YOU FOR YOUR UNDERSTANDING.

YADA: Any time you have a "ts" in a word your alarm bells go off because the tsade is the one letter that you don't know if it's going to the right or left and the direction of the letter is important because the direction of a letter tells you the movement of the individual is either towards God or away from Him. The "ts" words can picture a person who is observant, kind of leaning up in a prone position that you would be in if you were holding a book reading it. That's the tsyown; that's the good one, tsadyq is another one. There are also a lot of bad associated with "ts" words. This is a person laying down looking in the wrong direction ...

KIRK: What I got is he's looking up at the stars, a star gazer. He's not shamarring the Towrah and is revering the stars so he has a lot of things troubling him. It's hard to know what is positive or negative. But, in this case it is about either. It causes heavy toil, pain and sorrow so he's obviously focused on that. That's where all the stars come from and where they started doing them that way. He's not shamarrng the Towrah, so he's not sitting there reading so his focus and perspective is wrong, it's not on the house, he's not looking towards the house going home. So it sounds a little convoluted but it's hard to grasp that one exactly. It's not as clear as the others.

YADA: But here's something that is interesting. 'Atsab is not written with the alef but with the ayn. If it was written with the alef, the first letter of the Hebrew alphabet, the initial letter in 'ab father and if ... was looking in the direction of that, you would say, "Okay. This could be a really good thing." But no. It's their perspective and so the ayn is typically man's perspective, so it's "man's ___ or doorway - 'atsab so it's not written as a positive term.

KIRK: One last thought. He's not engaged in walking and he's revering the symbols, which Yahowah hates the stars and the moon when they are revered. So it's nothing good.

YADA: So 'atsab describes displeasing objects of religious veneration therefore Yahowah is removing anything and everything which elicits worship. The most vexing of those to be banished by the Almighty will be crosses, particularly those revealing a dead and tortured god nailed to a stick. Statues of Mary (which represent 'Asherah, 'Astarte, the Mother of God, the Queen of Heaven that Yahowah renounces).

Stars of David – the Star of David was first drawn in Kabbalah in the Zohar in the 11th or 12th century book written in Spain. It is Jewish mysticism which is the Jewish approach to the Occult. That is where it is first mentioned. There is no Star of David. This star was then somehow convoluted by the Roman Catholic Church as a way to demean Jews so that they would have to wear it so they could be marked clearly, abused and contained. Then from the Roman Catholic Church you had Adolf Hitler who thought it was a good idea and made Jews wear the Star of David, and put "Jude" in the center of it so they would know who to ship off to concentration camps to murder en mass, deprived of their rights. From that the Church and Nazis, taking this symbol that came out of Jewish occultism, made the Star of David a sign of the ethnicity of the nation and of the Jewish religion. Then to assign this veneration of a star to God's son, the Messiah, God is not pleased. The most popular religion in history parades around the image of a dead god on a stick. Satan was right when he came up here and said, "Hey God, they are so stupid. Trust me. I'm going to get them to worship me as if I were God. They are going to be so dumb that they are going to think that they are worshiping You when I am their object of interest. They are going to parade around under the symbol of a dead god on a stick. It's perfect." It's perfect if you are Satan. As for the name that God is going to eliminate from man's lexicon, He will begin with Jesus Christ, the Lord, HaShem, and Allah. When God is done, there will be no memory of Christianity, Judaism, Islam, or any other religion.

There are two types of people who assert that they speak for God: the religious and the political. Both will be invalidated and banished. And isn't it ironic considering that, those having claimed to have been chosen by God, are those God is choosing to obliterate?

The reason that clerics such as these end up locked away in She'owl is that God deems them to have associated themselves with the "ruwach ha tuma'ah – religiously defiling spirit." As such, popes and priests, rabbis and imams, preachers and pastors will be eternally incarcerated in She'owl. Leading people away from God is not a victimless crime.

Mind you, the overwhelming preponderance of people will have no punishment at all and will not go to hell. They have been misled. There is no penalty for having been misled. At the end of a person's life who has been misled whether they have been a passive practitioner of Judaism, Islam or Christianity and are not promoting it but are just victimized by it, they are an agnostic, atheist, they are not anti-God; they just were misled about God, then end of their life is the end of their life. They were given the opportunity to make better choices, they were given free will and a brain to process it, they were given a conscience to make sense of it, and at the end of their life if they did not, the great tragedy of religion is that their soul ceases to exist.

There are those who have complained when I say that and say that is not fair. What part of that is not fair? If you mislead people away from God, you spend eternity in She'owl because that's a really bad thing to do. If you are victimized by them and you never know any better you've got your life, and at the end of your life it was a gift and it's over, nothing more.

If you choose to pay attention to what God is saying, if you listen to Him and observe His Testimony and accept what He is offering and what He is requesting in return you get to live with Him forever. What part of that isn't fair?

What about the poor guy in Africa that has never heard this presentation? My response is why are you worrying about the poor guy in Africa when you're hearing it and are not responding. You are hearing it now and have this opportunity, but you are unwilling to capitalize upon it because you want to make an excuse for some poor guy in Africa. If that poor guy in Africa doesn't have the capacity to process what we're saying, which is typically not true, but should they have no access to the internet then nothing was taken from them. They would have their life and lived it as they saw fit and at the end of their life it is simply over. There's no penalty there; how could there be a reward there for never doing the right thing? Keep in mind not only are there 8 billion smart phones with access to the internet, everywhere in every community there is somebody who can take you to a library. So the truth is available.

God's intent was never to make His Testimony easily understood by everyone in the world so that Heaven was as crowded a place as the Earth. His intent was to save, salvage, reconcile the descendants of 'Abraham and Sarah, Yitschaq and Ya'aqob. He made a commitment to honor the promises he made through Mosheh and Dowyd, through Yirma'yah and Yasha'yah and Zakaryah. That's what He promised to do. And there isn't any of them who has that excuse, and that's the intent. For the vast preponderance of the rest of us we also have access and have no excuse. If you're going to use the poor guy in Africa that is illiterate, that is without connectivity, that person wasn't shortchanged. Stop worrying about them and start worrying about your own soul.

There were many people in primitive communities long before access to the truth was made available to them that are going to Hell/She'owl. There are certain things I've never been able to get out of my mind. On the far southwestern quarter of the Big Island in Hawaii, one of the prettiest places on Earth, there is a very spooky place with rock formations that were altars where cutouts were made on top for people to be put in order for their hearts to be cut out while they were alive. The King of the Polynesians that came up from the South Pacific into the Hawaiian Islands and the priests formed an alliance to control the people for their own benefit. Anyone who did anything to challenge their authority to enslave everyone else and to live a luxurious life while everyone else struggled, they and everyone they knew and loved was publicly murdered in a savage way. While the victims sadly had their lives destroyed and there is nothing more for them, the perpetrators are going to She'owl. God is fair. He has to not only send them to She'owl, but they have to be aware of why they were sent there. Our world has been filled with many disgusting people for a very long time.

Up until the point of Yahowah's return on Yowm Kipurym, it behooves God's people for us to expose and condemn all aspects of religion, including besmirching the names and titles attributed to their venerated objects of worship. But once Yahowah cleans house, they will no longer exist to trouble anyone. It is our retirement. While we are devoted to doing everything we can to expose and condemn Judaism, Christianity, Islam, Progressiveness, Wokeism, and all of the conspiracies so that people walk away from them and begin to seriously consider Yahowah's Testimony, we're not going to complain when the time comes when Yahowah says, "Good job. Here's a gold watch. Go have a good time. What you've done doesn't need to be done anymore." That's not bad news; we would love it.

It is interesting that I had thought that us gowym that Yahowah had reached out to because there were none of His people willing to work with Him, that as soon as He returns, we go on vacation because Yahuwdym would be put back in charge. Yahuwdym are put in charge of Yisra'el, but Yahowah specifically says, "Who is going to teach those who have just recently been removed from the breast, those who are just weaned from their mother's milk?" Somebody had to teach them how to observe Kipurym, Sukah, even the Shabat, how to pronounce Yahowah's name and what it means, who He and Dowyd are. There's a while that teachers are going to be needed, so we will be teaching for a little while. In that middle period between Kipurym and Sukah, where we camp out with God for 1,000 years, God will continue to work through people because that's His mandate, that's His decision and will. There will be enormous recompense where people will be held accountable and there will be certain ones of us who will be chosen to administer justice. So we won't be galivanting around the stars immediately; however understand that postponing our retirement is okay because it is going to be exceedingly lavish and long, so having a year or five days taken from our ability to go off and explore the universe when we get an infinite number of days in the universe, and we get to actively participate in the creation of a new one and we go to being seven dimensional from being three dimensional. It's simply an informative observation that we're providing here because I think Covenant members want to know what is our responsibility and what should we be prepared to do. It's always good to be prepared for what God wants accomplished and to be ready.

KIRK: Molly will be teaching the kids.

YADA: Yes. Molly has the Yada Yahowah for Kids which is a marvelous program and is an essential part of what we do. And that's one of the reasons it's so important to have family is that God wants us to teach our children. You can't teach children with the same vocabulary and intensity that we use in this program. No matter how brilliant, there is no ten-year-old on the planet that's going to pick up a copy of Yada Yahowah and understand it. So it is vital to have what Molly is doing, so I'm glad you brought that up.

With every religious symbol and proponent eliminated, malcontents will be few and far between. New souls conceived during the 'Eden years, however, will still enjoy freewill, so there will be those who choose to go rogue.

This is a troubling passage that I'm going to comment on in the end. But I want you to know I'm with you in saying this is a troubling passage.

“It shall come to pass (wa hayah) that if anyone (ky 'ysh) claims to speak as a prophet (naba' – claims to communicate the past or future) again ('owd – thereafter), then his father (wa 'ab huw') and his mother (wa 'em huw') will say ('amar) to the child they conceived and bore (la huw' yalad), ‘You shall not continue to live (lo' chayah – you will not have your life restored or preserved (qal imperfect)), for indeed (ky) you speak (dabar – you have told (piel perfect)) lies (sefer – that which is misleading and deceives, testify falsely, disappointing and betraying others for no reason) in the name, place, and reputation (shem – in the proper designation, location, and renown) of Yahowah (YaHoWaH – an accurate presentation of the name of 'elowah – God as guided by His towrah – instructions regarding His hayah – existence).’

Then his father (wa 'ab huw') and his mother (wa 'em huw'), who conceived and bore him (yalad huw'), (daqar) will pierce him (daqar huw' – will revile him) along with what he predicts (ba naby' huw' – including what he claims will occur).” (Zakaryah / Remember Yahowah / Zechariah 13:3)

While I said this troubling in one way, it is reassuring in another in that it tells us we will not be robots. I don't think any of us who are Covenant will ever say, “I renounce this. I've gotten to know Yahowah, but I'm bored. I want to go to the dark side.” I've always said, once Covenant, always Covenant. However, what they are talking about here is someone who is born during the Eden years, still has free will but is not somebody who is part of the Covenant. That's enormously important because as free will they must have the choice of “not Yah”. For all the people on Earth having made the choice of “not Yah” which is virtually everyone, they hung around and some of them became like Akiba, Paul and Maimonides and led millions and billions astray. What a terrible thing to happen during the millennial celebration of the Shabat during the 'Eden years than to have somebody lead a revolution away from Yahowah so that many of those born during these years abandon God and squander their opportunity.

So God is saying here that it is far better that we have freedom, that people be allowed to choose “not Yahowah” if they wish to, but that if they do, they are not allowed to mislead others. That such a person is going to die separated from God, and that the most compassionate and loving thing we can do at this point is to keep them from corrupting others and taking more with them.

KIRK: That passage bothered me because ___ always translated “pierce and to stab violently” ___ so I looked at the letters again and with the q and r like in qara' – called out or separated and the way it's drawn they are being separated from the house, so that's deadly. If you're not with Yahowah's family you're not with Yahowah, so you're going to die. But that always bothered me that as a parent I was going to stab my child, but just a minute ago you said separate and that's what I came up with rather than “pierced”. I don't know if I'm right, but it seems that stabbing violently is a different word.

YADA: What they are basically saying here is that soul will not ... continue to live and apart from Yahowah there is no life. So it's the negation of life, which is when you speak lies about Yahowah, which is what this says, for indeed (ky) you speak (dabar – you have told (piel perfect)) lies (seger – that which is misleading and deceives, testify falsely, disappointing and betraying others for no reason) in the name, place, and reputation (shem – in the proper designation, location, and renown) of Yahowah (YaHoWaH – an accurate presentation of the name of 'elowah – God as guided by His towrah – instructions regarding His hayah – existence).'

That is the very definition of lifelessness, and the instruction is that they will no longer continue to chayah; they are not going to have their lives preserved.

Then his father (wa 'ab huw') and his mother (wa 'em huw'), who conceived and bore him (yalad huw'), (daqar) will pierce him (daqar huw' – will revile him) along with what he predicts (ba naby' huw' – including what he claims will occur).” (Zakaryah / Remember Yahowah / Zechariah 13:3)

It's just that there is an immediate response as opposed to no intervention because we're living right with Yahowah, so it's snuffed out immediately.

This statement answers a number of questions. First, children will be conceived and born during the Millennial Shabat. This would strongly infer that there will be sex, which is a good thing for those of us who like it. Sex is a fun thing. Why would God want to deprive us of something that He conceived that is this enjoyable? Also, there is fun in growing together as a family raising and nurturing and supporting children, so we're able to have them and contribute to their lives. That means that at some point we are going to take on physical form when we choose to and there's going to be sex.

There's this myth that God is a cosmic killjoy, and you better not have sex, and if you do it, it had better be in the missionary position under the covers with the lights off. God never says anything about it. God's description of sexuality is exceedingly limited, and He just says, “Don't do it with the beasties. I don't care how cute you think the lambie is don't do it with the lambie. I don't want you doing it with other animals. That's disgusting.” He also says, “Don't do incest; don't do mommy, daddy, brother, sister, your uncle; don't do your family. It's a betrayal of trust.” You don't have a right to rape a slave. Rape is bad.

Because in war men were so despicable the victorious army would as a matter of savagery rape the men laying on the field dying, sodomizing them, and God said that was disgusting and not to do that. That's pretty much the list.

In terms of marriage He never says you can only have one wife or one husband. A wife, one is great and I'm sure it's also true of husbands, but multiple is not appealing to me. I do not see the value in that. But I will tell you that God never criticized Dowyd for having ten concubines and eight wives. All He had issue with was the way he got Bathsheba to be his wife which was disgusting because he sent a man off to war hoping he would be killed. That's revolting, and God was exceedingly disappointed in him for doing it. In marriage, God says if you don't want to be married anymore, just write a letter and it's all over. So this idea of there will be sex should not be surprising because God is not a cosmic killjoy. We should expect that Heaven will be pleasurable in every possible way even though most of the time we will be a lifeform more akin to light and therefore without a physical body, but we will be able to take on physical form to celebrate the Mow'ed Miqra'ey to enjoy one another's company.

Second, there will be freewill, even when we are living in proximity to Yahowah and under Dowyd's dominion. During that time, stupid will exist, but it will be short-lived. Even God can't fix stupid.

Third, our experiences in eternity will not be scripted or preordained. Our future is whatever we choose. And therefore, it would be an infringement on our freewill for someone to predict one outcome versus another.

Fourth, since prophecy exists to validate the Word of God, such that we can determine what Yahowah inspired, and differentiate it from that which He did not say, we will not be needing proof of authenticity in eternity. We will receive Yahowah's guidance from an unassailable source – with much of it integrated into the fabric of our lives. So when someone speaks contrary to God, you just know it.

Fifth, families will be part of our tomorrow. We will know the joys of raising children.

Sixth, while the Covenant is forever, each new soul will have the same opportunity we have been afforded, which is to accept or reject God. And there will continue to be a less desirable outcome for those who choose poorly.

And seventh, we will be judgmental and discerning in the hereafter, we will continue to think and to make sound decisions. These parents are shown deciding the fate of their child.

To maintain 'Eden-like conditions, false teachers will be eliminated swiftly so that they do not inspire a rebellion, causing another fall. If 'Adam had told HaSatan when he slithered into the Garden, "No! That's not what God said. You are misrepresenting what He said and twisting His words. That's not right." And if he had told Chawah what she needed to know for her to make a good decision it would have never occurred that they got thrown out of the Garden. So this return to Eden with, the exception of a very brief moment at the end, there will be no intrusion of HaSatan, this spirit to specifically create this final choice because deceit leads to separation and death. For the sake of the many, the most merciful thing to do is to eradicate evil's host before others are infected. Had this been done with Paul, Akiba, and Muhammad, billions of souls would not have been damned by their lies.

If I could, knowing what I know now, have eliminated Paul when he slithered into Damascus, I would have done so. If I could have silenced Akiba and could have taken the pen away from Maimonides, any of these individuals, I'd do it in a heartbeat. Knowing what we know now, can you imagine being in Austria as a young boy failing to gain admission into art school or as a young man trying to rally crowds in the beer halls? What if you had ended his life? Fifty million of people wouldn't have lost theirs. What if you had taken the lives of Lennon or Stalin, or of Mao? Over 100 million people would not have suffered needlessly. God is astute about this. So the passage that we just read that is troubling for so many is reassuring that we are no longer going to have to endure a Stalin, Lennon, a Mao or an Akiba or a Paul ever again.

Well, I am about to turn into a pumpkin, so we'll stop here and pick it up again next week. Happy Shabat to one and all. We look forward to being with you at this time next week. Thank you to the Family for what has been an amazing week in terms of updating the website with Volume 2 of Introduction to God, the creation of the three social media sites Yada Yahowah Twitter, Yada Yahowah, Facebook and Yada Yahowah Instagram, the marvelous work Steve is doing with Yada Yah on YouTube. There's so much being done with the edit and fact check team, all working under Jacki for these books to be published at Amazon. We are deeply grateful for the contribution of everyone in this regard and I think Yahowah is pleased. May Yah bless. Shabat Shalom.
