Please Note: I have transcribed this to the best of my ability. Sound bites of parties speaking simultaneously and those which were inaudible to me have been deleted from the transcript. If I guessed at a word, it was followed by a ()? A___ (blank line) indicates I could not understand the word or phrase and three periods ... indicate an interruption in the dialogue of one party by another. Thank you for your understanding. MK

Good evening and welcome to Yada Yah Radio; we have Dee and Kirk with us. Kirk, I understand that you had the fortitude to listen to Joe Biden's full speech on why we're doing a really good thing by supplying the weapons that are killing so many people in the Ukraine. What were your thoughts?

KIRK: After I finished throwing up, I was in pretty good shape. Besides being beyond my imagination of a compilation of hypocritical remarks, he's the type of guy who will tell a lie even when the truth would serve him better and he's just going to follow that path. He's trying to convince people this is something about freedom, democracy and sovereignty of state to give billions of dollars to the Ukraine to fight against Russia, and we've talked about all these things, but immediately my brain went to okay let's study recent history about what we've done overcoming duly elected people besides the Ukraine like Iran and Iraq.

YADA: Yes, it is stunning, and one of the challenges of all this are the casualties, not just the Ukrainians; and they are hard to root for. The more you know about the Ukrainians the less you tend to favor them. The Russian casualties are a shame too, but the fallout of the sanctions after the mishandling of COVID to have this kind of impact on food, fuel supplies and worldwide economics has been catastrophic. There are about 50 countries that are on the verge of anarchy and chaos as a direct result of the stupidity of this war.

The history goes back to 2008, when George W. Bush announced that his and America's intent was to make the Georgian Republic and the Ukraine part of NATO. It's like the Russians telling the United States that, "We've decided to make Cuba and Mexico part of Russia and we're going to make a military treaty in opposition to the United States in Cuba and Mexico." No country can tolerate that.

Then between 2012 and 2014, the United States began undermining and bribing the elected government of the Ukraine to become part of the West financially so that they were funded by the IMF as opposed to being funded by the Russians. The Russians had a means of getting repayment, something the Ukrainians were not very good at doing. They do not and never have had a sense of honor in the Ukraine, so they welched on their debt but the Russians had a pipeline through the Ukraine and could always capitalize on taking debt payments out of the transit fees. That was a devastating blow. I spoke vociferously on the radio programs about how it was going to lead to a very tragic situation. Then in 2016, two senior Republican Senators, John McCain and Lindsay Graham, went to the Ukraine (you can watch the video on YouTube) and said, "We have a mutual enemy in Russia," and that the United States would arm them and fight this war against them until they prevailed against Russia. We declared war against Russia. Before Russia invaded the Ukraine, they gave us a year to play the Cuban Missile Crisis and simply failed saying they wouldn't make the Ukraine part of NATO, wouldn't arm the Ukraine and will leave everybody alone; that would have been it. But the Biden Administration decides to blow up in an act of war the Russian Nord Stream Pipeline into Germany very much like what the United States would think if the Russians bombed the Houston refineries.

The United States caused this war, wanted this war and will do everything possible on both sides of the aisle to perpetrate the war to make certain it doesn't end. We have sacrificed America's defense by handing over way too many weapons, we've bankrupted the country by squandering hundreds of billions of dollars for nothing to make the world less safe. The Russians know it. They have stated outright that we have put them in a position where they have no other choice, and there are some people beginning to wake up to this.

It reminds me of where we were in 2001 and 2002. At the time, 99.999% of Americans thought America was doing the right thing to invade Afghanistan and Iraq. I was the only person speaking out on radio talk shows, saying, "No, this will end badly. Absolutely guarantee this is what will happen: we're going to squander blood and coin, lots of people will die, and we'll make a bad situation worse. We're manufacturing more terrorists than we kill and will give Iraq to Iran. We'll lash out at a manifestation, a symptom, instead of the real enemy and never identify the real enemy." I was the only one. It was a million to one against the position I took, and I took it aggressively on thousands of radio programs; it turned out exactly as I said, with no variation. And now, starting in 2012 – 2014, I was the first voice saying that this would lead to a world war, what we're doing in the Ukraine. Even before these events materialized, leading to outright warfare and the US fighting a proxy war to bring down Russia, I told the world where it would lead. I'm right again. It's probably a million to one again in opposition to this view.

Part of the reason that I can be right and a million others are wrong is that I know how things are going to devolve. I've read Yahowah's game plan, I've read the future history of the world, so I'm cognizant of that. I'm also a student of history and I recognize that there's a reason that God said, "Don't trust your country – walk away from it,” and I recognize also that politics has become as zealous as the most fundamentalist religion. If you're a Trumpite, you will go to the mat for a man who's a blatant narcissist; at least half of what he says is as dumb as Ezekiel. If you're a progressive, you have more religious zeal and as many smarts as a Muslim suicide bomber. So, that's where the world has come. So few people are open-minded and open to evidence and reason. Kirk, we talked briefly before the program began, and you said you were surprised as to how fast we're headed to total chaos, and that's what will happen. What the United States has so belligerently done with COVID and Russia is going to backfire, and Saudi Arabia, China, Brazil, India, and Russia are going to work with some 150 other countries and will pull away from the US dollar being the world's reserve currency; America will implode because our currency is nothing but a faith-based instrument and the faith in that instrument will be lost when they realize that we can't fund it anymore and it has no credibility. We brought this on ourselves.

“Everyone thought that Russia would just blow through the Ukraine. Isn't it just marvelous how much trouble they're having, and they'll fight the Ukrainians. Boy, they're really giving it to them.” No. The Ukrainians have the best weapons that the United States and Europe can provide. They don't even have to pay for them. Yes, the Russians have great superiority in terms of air power; it's like a hundred to one, but they can't use their planes because America gave too many missiles to Russia, they can't use their tanks because there's too many anti-tank weapons... the United States and Europe gave the Ukrainians. So, it's just a slog out war along the lines of the worst battles of World War One and World War Two.

So, what's going to happen? You must be smart enough to recognize that if American weapons kill enough Russians the Russians are eventually going to make America pay for that by a nuclear bomb on one or more cities. That's what's going to happen, and we brought this stupidity upon ourselves.

I was listening to a recording today of Congressional hearings on Twitter that emerged because the FBI interfered with Twitter on Hunter Biden's laptop, which, as you know, is a cesspool of bad behavior. Had it been known and proclaimed, Trump would likely have won the last election. The Washington establishment didn't want that to happen, so the FBI paid Twitter and Facebook to squelch any stories about the Hunter Biden laptop. I did one; my story was reading by the mainstream media, and I was banned. So, they were banning anybody from talking about it.

It got even worse. The Congressional hearing has shown that the FBI paid millions of dollars to Twitter to silence the story. The FBI had its own offices and employees in a back room within Twitter to control the social media. If they had them within Twitter, they had them ... That the US government is deliberately engaged in the most reprehensible forms of propaganda doing far worse than the US has blamed Russia for doing as it relates to the whole interference in our elections, and that Americans are being collectively played for fools, it is staggering what has occurred. We are disgusting. If your patriotism keeps you from acknowledging that, shame on you; it will cost you everything. So, that's our news for today. The world is devolving.

There's only person to trust; His name is Yahowah, the Creator God of the universe. He proved His existence through prophecy in the Towrah, Prophets and Psalms. He is enormously credible, He is helpful, approachable, enlightening, emancipating, enriching and empowering. He is the inspiration behind the prophecies and the announcements that are portrayed in the book of Howsha'.

We are we're going to pick up where we left off last week in Howsha' 5: 8, 9.

“Blow (taqa' – sound and trumpet (qal imperative – of your own freewill choose to actually blast)) the Showphar (Showphar – ram's-horn trumpet; from showph – to strike out openly in a crushing and bruising manner and shaphar – in a bright, fair, and beautiful way) upon (ba) ha Giba'ah | the Hill, the clarion (chatsotsarah – horn) in (ba) ha Ramah | the Heights.

Signal an alarm and shout for joy (ruwa' – make a loud noise so that it is heard openly by the public and they become aware of what is going to occur, tragically and jubilantly) at Beyth 'Awen | Home of Trouble (Beyth 'Awen – House of Religious Wickedness and Family of Affliction and Sorrow).

It is the end for you as the other ('achar 'atah – afterward, at a later time, during the last days, it will be over for you) O Benyamyn | Benjamite (Benyamyn – Son of the Sea, Spawn of Gentiles). (Howsha' 5:8)

'Ephraym | Worthless Specks of Carbon ('Ephraym – Ashes) will be horrified and desolated (la shamah – will be devastated during a horrific, atrocious, and appalling event) which will occur (hayah) in the day (ba yowm – during the time) of rebuke and punishment (towkechah – disapproval, argument, rational discourse, correction, and chastisement, of chiding and impeachment) among the various tribes (ba shebet – within the clans, family heritage, subdivisions, and people groups) of Yisra'el | those who contend and struggle with God (Yisra'el).

At that time, I will make Yada known to be sure (yada' 'aman – I will be known and acknowledged for being truthful and reliable, dependable and enduring (yada' is hifil perfect – God will act at a certain point to acknowledge and make known while 'aman is nifal participle – as He carries out and receives the benefits of being reliable in a highly descriptive manner)).” (Howsha' / He Saves / Hosea 5:9)

There is nothing more vital to the mission that we have accepted at Yahowah's request than the Showphar particularly as it relates to ruwa' | Taruw'ah which is the fifth of seven Mow'ed Miqra'ey. They begin with Pesach, Matsah and Bikuwrym. For religious Jews, you know nothing about Matsah or Bikuwrym anymore. You celebrate Passover as if it were a seven-day feast and the beginning and ending of all things and that's just not the case. Passover without Matsah is counterproductive. You have relegated Matsah to a missing ingredient. The purpose of Pesach and Matsah, with Matsah purging our souls of religious corruption, is that we are able to be part of Yahowah's Covenant family.

This leads to Shabu'ah which speaks of our souls being enriched, empowered, enlightened and liberated so that we're in a position to Taruw'ah, which is what we have been called to do - that is to blast out a warning particularly to Yisra'el in saying you're continuing to irritate your God and going in the wrong direction and also to share Yahowah's message which is that there is a path to Him, that He can be known, there are conditions and benefits of the Covenant, listen to what He has to say.

God wants us to not only blow this Showphar to make this announcement on the hills and on the heights but also at the Time of Trouble, and that is what we're entering now, a horrible time in which the consequence of Benjamin, the Benjamite, is going to be the most extreme. The ultimate expression of Benjamin is Christianity. Paul was a Benjamite, and he is the wolf in sheep's clothing which fits that prophecy.

Ephraym is symbolic of the ten tribes that are lost that were part of Yisra'el. Yahowah is calling them home and they will as part of His family have this opportunity to be reconciled with Yahuwdah, which is the term from which "Jew" is derived, and then will be reconciled with Yahowah on the Day of Reconciliations in year 6000 Yah which is now just ten years away. That is because the years that were created by the Rambam Maimonides were moronic. They were not based upon the Towrah, they were based upon his fascination with the Islamic number 19. He created an absolute nightmare of an accounting system and it speaks badly of Jews that they aren't smart enough to recognize that that numbering system has no bearing in fact. If you go back, and you put together a timeline Dee, you find that in 4,000 years which is 1968 BCE, almost 6,000 years ago ...

DEE: 3968

YADA: 4,000 years before the fulfillment of Pesach, Matsah, Bikuwrym and Shabu'ah 'Adam and Chawah were exiled from the Garden and 2,000 years from that, 40 Yowbel, is when 'Abraham and Yitschaq went to Mount Mowryah and performed the dress rehearsal for Pesach and affirmed the conditions of the Covenant. Two thousand years from that on the same mountain and on the same date of the year on Pesach Yahowah though Yahowsha' fulfilled Pesach so that we might become immortal and then His soul went into She'owl the following day in year 4000 Yah which occurred in 33 CE so that our souls might be purged of religious and political corruption. If you take 40 Yowbel, which is 2,000 years from 33 CE you come to 2033 which will be year 6000 Yah so that on October 2nd as the sun sets at 6:22 p.m. in Jerusalem Yahowah will return with Dowd to fulfill the most important day on His calendar and in fact the most important day in universal history, Kipurym, the Day of Reconciliations, when Dowd dressed as the high priest will be sprinkling the blood on the Mercy Seat | the Kaporeth of the Ark of the Covenant so that Yisra'el and Yahuwdah together not only with one another but with Yahowah will be forever reconciled. That is where we are we. We will then have a thousand years of camping out here on Earth with Yahowah as we celebrate the beginning and the eighth day of Sukah. That is His is his promise; that is where we are in terms of the timeline.

The end of this sounds self-serving and yet the last thing we're doing is serving self.

At that time, I will make Yada known to be sure (yada 'aman – I will be known and acknowledged for being truthful and reliable, dependable and enduring (yada is hifil perfect – God will act at a certain point to acknowledge and make known while 'aman is nifal participle – as He carries out and receives the benefits of being reliable in a highly descriptive manner)).” (Howsha / He Saves / Hosea 5:9)

DEE: I really enjoyed this verse. I said last week, and so did Kirk, that this is not self-serving; it's reassuring. We can trust that Yahowah said this would happen and have absolute confidence that it is not necessarily being about you, but it is about you like you said, and that's very reassuring to me.

YADA: Well, since there are no other yadas out there doing what we're doing and there are no other choters, nakrys, bashars or malak doing what we're doing and it's me. You can find nothing in the history of humankind that parallels, even comes close to, the wealth of material at yada.ya.com (yada | to know Yahowah or Yah, either short or long version). Look at that bookshelf. Every book is available for free because we're not self-serving; we're serving you. We know this information ...

DEE: I looked to see if there was another Yada. There is a rabbinical site called Mi Yodeya and it's totally rabbinical. They couldn't even agree what yada meant on the site. So, that's what you've got.

YADA: Well, I can tell you what yada' means, which is why I chose it as a nom du plume 22 years ago when we started this. I chose that at the beginning partly because of what I was translating here in the book of Howsha' and I liked the fact that Hebrew had numerous words for "to know" and "to understand," that knowing leads to understanding and that the most popular Hebrew word for knowing means "to be familiar with, to acknowledge, to come to understand, to appreciate, to be cognizant of, to perceive." It is a relational form of knowing because (da'at)? in Hebrew is empirical knowledge and yada' is relational knowledge. So, there's no more powerful word than yada' when it comes to Yahowah so it seemed like the ultimate manifestation of serving our God to help others become yada' Yahowah because until you know you can't understand, and understanding is the most viable commodity in the universe. So, we're here acknowledging our knowledge of Yahowah. While I happen to love the Hebrew word byn | to understand by making connections between things, understanding is a long process. It takes years of accumulating knowledge and making the appropriate connections between things to finally reach the point of understanding.

A good example: I am probably in the fourth review pass of a chapter I'm writing for the book of Ezekiel. It's the first of eight chapters that have to do with the remake of what is supposedly Jerusalem, a remake of the Temple, a remake of the allocations of land to Jews, and a remake of the Towrah's Mow'ed Miqra'ey, the Invitations to Come and Meet with God. It requires a lot of work because of these connections and it's one of those things where there are 300 and some odd measurements that were given, just stunning amounts of minutia, most of which is crazy. You have doorways that are wider than door jambs, adjacent multiple walls. In a future compound for Yahowah's home, there are multiple walls and six massive gates lined with guards. Now what kind of an idiot, when Yahowah returns, we're all family and there is no threat, is going to depict His home with massive walls and guarded gates? So, you're dealing with this and you say it's hard not getting lost in the minutia since there's such an enormous amount of detail. It's an interesting connection.

I was struggling with something today. I was wondering since Yahowah did this marvelous job of explaining all the proportions and the nature of the Tabernacle | the Tent of the Witness, He not only gave us the dimensions of it He said, "Okay, I want the courtyard to be delineated by linen curtains this high and the sections will be this long and then there'll be a great section of the curtain that you can all go in." I'm going to tell you that a curtain isn't even a barrier to a moth. So, this is not a barrier, it's just to say the area on the other side of this is special; that's all it says. You go from that to Ezekiel's monstrosity that begins with an entire chapter devoted to walls and guarded gates. These two do not fit. The rabbinical community gives Ezekiel a pass for the enormity of his scale and the fact that there's no relationship between the Tabernacle that Yahowah gave so which detail to and this massive structure that is in Israel, but it's not going to be built in Israel according to Ezekiel. So, one of the struggles I had is: okay perhaps they're right in saying because that the original Tabernacle was smaller than Solomon's Temple and therefore it's okay that the third be bigger than either of the preceding two. That's the rabbinical excuse; I'm not buying that.

Today Leah was looking for something for me which is that Kings and Chronicles do a marvelous job of explaining the as-built condition of the first Temple which is called Yahowah's House. But it's not like the situation in the Towrah where Yahowah told Moseh it's going to be these dimensions, it's going to be out of this material, this is going to be its orientation, this is how it's going to be furnished and this is what you're going to do with it. So, in the Towrah Yahowah's explaining all these details in advance of it being built because frankly there's a lot we can learn about our relationship with Yahowah based upon His description. But in the case of the house of Yahowah, Temple if you will, that was constructed by Solomon everything appears to be an as-built report. Where is the text of Yahowah saying, "Okay, this is now a permanent building so we're going to build it on a bigger scale, the footprint will be twice the size, same ratio and proportions but twice the size. The height is going to be three times the size." Where is that? It turns out it's there. Dowd actually says that Yahowah gave him a replica, a model, and that Yahowah communicated every minute detail of what He wanted, how it was to be constructed, its proportions and dimensions, the __, the use of each __ in writing and He gave that to Dowd. So, what is reported in terms of the as-built condition, that's exactly what God wanted. Anything that differs from that is a non-starter unless there's justification.

So, what would the justification be of a different home of the Covenant? A great one is that by the time that Yahowah returns, and we will have if you will, a third home there will be no outsiders, no one who is religious, political, militaristic, there will be no terrorists, no threats; everybody is family. And with everybody being family access is going to be greater. In other words, there will be no ... With access being greater, it's likely even the walls will be transparent which they could be if they are made of light. So, the scale of Ezekiel's monstrosity is such that even if you were to approach these guarded gates the scale is so massive a human would feel insignificant and that's the exact opposite that Yahowah wants. The scale of Ezekiel's compound is over a mile square; it's larger than the city of Jerusalem. To build it you would have to flatten and eliminate Mowryah, Olives, the Valley, the entire city and all its history. You'd have to bury the original House of Yahowah and the house of Dowd; there would be no city of Dowd, it takes out the whole thing. So, this is a monster.

One of the advantages of knowing Yahowah is that you can look forward and say it is possible that the home of Yahowah will be different than Yahowah's instructions and the as-built condition pursuant to what we call Solomon's Temple. ... The Ark of the Covenant, a great example, isn't needed. After Dowd anoints the Ark of the Covenant one last time on Kipurym, the Day of Atonement, on the Mercy Seat, the Seat of Atonement, of Reconciliations, it serves no purpose from that point on. Why do you need to carry around a box that is for your forgiveness when you have been perfected for all time? Why do you need a box that carries around the Ten Statements when they're going to be written on your heart? Why do you need a box that has the original autograph of the Towrah carried beside it when God's going to scribe the entire thing inside of us? We don't need it anymore.

DEE: I think that was the purpose, to sort of demonstrate that with the Tablets inside and that is the result ...

YADA: ... anymore. We have direct access to Yahowah. There are things that can be different, but the scale of the building cannot enormous. It can't be imposing because the whole idea is for us to be more like Yahowah, not to be frightened of Him. This can't be like, "How dare you puny human come up to the Great and Magnificent Oz. Go away!" That is the feeling of this penitentiary that Ezekiel is making.

I got on this whole thing because I wanted to explain the importance of yada and its transition to byn | to knowing and understanding. I've been doing this for 22 years and yet because you have to make the right connections to keep all of this in context, and you can't get swallowed up by the details, it takes some doing to communicate the message intelligently even when it's a rebuke.

For those that maybe this is the first time you've listened to this program it is true that the book of Ezekiel is wholly trash from beginning to end. There's nothing in it that's redeemable or useful. It is the voice of the Lowy Tan | Satan whose name is Halal ben Shakar. It reads like the fulfillment of Yasha'yah 14 which depicts Satan rising up in Babylon to not only control the world but to be worshiped as if he were God. That is the basis of the book of Ezekiel. It is reprehensible in every possible way, and it is a great tragedy that people have been led to believe that that nonsense was true.

The Showphar | Ram's Horn provides an elegant, boisterous, and piercing, almost haunting resonance when blown correctly. I was deployed by Yahowah on Taruw'ah in 2001 and I can't blow the Showphar for love or money, but my little wife can make that thing sing. So, maybe you do have to be Jewish to blow the Showphar. It is a magnificent instrument with a unique sound that resonates right through your soul. It was Yahowah's choice of instruments to awaken His people. He is warning the Yahuwdym who turn a deaf ear to the final blast of the Showphar on Taruw'ah. If you are a Jew, it should make you cringe, it should make the hair stand up on the back of your neck because you don't even know what Taruw'ah is. Your rabbis and your culture have replaced Taruw'ah with the Babylonian New Year Rosh Hashanah. You think that is how you usher in your "High Holy Days" and there is nothing holy about any of these things. That's a religious term with pagan roots and Rosh Hashanah is an entirely pagan Babylonian festival.

Yahowah is telling you don't ignore Him. A time is going to come that if you ignore Him then you will miss Yowm Kipurym | the Day of Reconciliations, and there is no other option after Kipurym. Once Kipurym occurs you are either with God and have been reconciled into the relationship or you will spend your eternity either separated from Him or your soul will be dissipated to nothingness. Those who do not listen to this warning will miss Sukah, the return to the Garden where we get to camp out with our Father.

This realization is not only important to you, but to me as well. I was summoned by Yahowah on Taruw'ah, the day of ruwa' | to signal an alarm and shout for joy in the fall of 2001. With other troubadours having joined the chorus, we have begun to taqa' | trumpet Yahowah's message as ruwa' | as loudly and openly as possible ever since. Throughout this prequel to the Last Days, we have given equal time to the tragedies and triumphs which await a misled and unsuspecting world.

We began tonight as we typically do, talking about some element in the news that's relevant to our listeners and our lives and we do the same thing that Yahowah does. Yahowah constantly warns us that this is what the world's going to dish out and if you're not with Him this is what you're going to endure because it is a choice. You can choose to be with man, or you can choose to be with God but you can't choose to be with both.

Yahowah's message has been sounded in Beyth 'Awen | the Home of Trouble and House of Religious Affliction. And in the end, it will bring down the worst of the Benyamyns | Benjamites, Sha'uwil | Paul, and his religious cult – Christianity. The four volumes of Questioning Paul – Liars Lie, Towrahless, Devil's Advocate, and Incredible – are the most effective weapons ever wielded at the world's most popular and anti-Semitic religion.

While it has always been obvious, particularly with Yahowah calling Sha'uwil out by name in His Prophet, Chabaquwq | Habakkuk, calling him the "Plague of Death," it is always reassuring to read Yahowah's concurrence. Christianity will be second after Islam to meet its doom.

This is a particularly revealing aspect of this prophecy for 'achar | the last days, because with all of Yahowah's animosity directed at Yisra'el, with Benyamyn excluded from 'Ephraym, the wayward tribe remained unmentioned up to this point. But now we know that the tribe which gave us the two most infamous demon-possessed individuals in Yisra'el's history – the wannabe King Sha'uwil | Saul and the wannabe Apostle Sha'uwil | Paul – will endure a well-deserved fate.

I don't think most people recognize that King Saul and the wannabe Apostle Paul both admitted to being demon possessed. Even Muhammad admitted that he was demon possessed. They told us the truth, which is something they didn't often do, so we should listen.

As a curiosity, a band of prophets met near Gibeah to appoint Saul king. As a tall, handsome, and rich man, he fit their criterion for leadership. And it was at Gibeah that Dowd recovered the Ark of the Covenant from Philistine captivity. So, it's an interesting place for Yahowah to say, "Blow the Showphar here.

Ramah is where Yasha'yah predicted the Assyrians would advance toward Yaruwshalaim. The Hebrew root even conveys "the height of idolatry."

As we continue to read what God says is in store for His people, the more it appears that the overwhelming majority of the remnant reconciled by Yahowah on this day will be Yahuwdym. 'Ephraym will be desolated in a horrific event and Benyamyn will be no more.

There will be a day of towkechah | accountability for eleven of the twelve tribes of Yisra'el. They will be rebuked and disapproved, chided and chastised. Rational arguments will prevail over their religious drivel for a change. For far too long, Yisra'el has lived up to the negative implications of its name: Yisra'el means Individuals who Contend with and Struggle against God. The truth will finally be told and hold sway over the lies.

Recognizing this, the concluding words are both verbs. Yada', meaning, "to know and make known," was spoken by God in the hifil perfect. This stem means that the Almighty is engaging to put Yada into action, such that Yada becomes an extension of Yahowah's effort to educate His people. In the hifil not only does the subject enable the object to participate in the action of the verb which is to know but that the subject causes the object to serve as an understudy to be a secondary subject.

The conjugation reveals that this will occur at a time of Yahowah's choosing, one likely coterminous with the demise of Benyamyn and 'Ephraym.

'Aman, meaning "to be sure and certain, reliable and dependable, truthful and enduring," was conveyed in the nifal participle. This is important because the more you hear this, we've talked about it in many programs, and I know, Kirk and Dee, you've studied these stems, conjugations, and moods. The more you study it, the richer Hebrew becomes as a language and the more equipped you are to understand Yahowah's testimony to dig deep and derive meaning that isn't available to casual readers. So, the nifal stem is quite different than the hifil. In the nifal stem, the subject of the verb carries out and receives the action of the verb so that it would mean that Yahowah is providing 'aman certainty, reliability, dependability, and by doing that He becomes more truthful, dependable and reliable. So, He affirms these things and benefits from them. As a verbal adjective, which is what the participle means, the truth is actively and accurately presented, becoming vivid, demonstrable, robust, and prolifically depicted.

These things yada' | known and 'aman | certain, the two verbs juxtaposed with their respective depictions, can convey either “At that time I will make Yada known to be sure” or “I will be known and acknowledged for being truthful and reliable, dependable and enduring” – or perhaps both. There is always a method behind Yahowah's ruwa'. And if the former, the purpose is to affirm the latter. So, even if there is a difference between the two, they work in harmony.

But alas, recognizing neither, Jewish leadership is in for a rough ride. This is what God had to say through one of the most remarkable of prophets, Howsha', some 750 BCE, 2700 to 2800 years ago:

“The government and religious leaders of Yahuwdah (sar – the ruling authority figures, the highest-ranking officials; from sarar – those who act like royalty, as lords with an assumed right to control others and claim power for themselves)

Sar can also be a very positive term. It's used a lot in conjunction with the service of Dowd. When he returns as king he is going to have a sar | someone whose job it is to serve him and to make his time as king and the responsibilities associated with it more effectively managed. Just as Yahowah likes working through people Dowd is going to work through a sar. The government and religious leaders of Yahuwdah are perceived as untrustworthy and disloyal deviants.

Before we go on, a very significant percentage, I think it's 30 to 40 percent now, of Jews in Israel are defying the rabbinic mandate to only be married through the Rabbinate, to only be married into Judaism, if you will. Recent polls show that almost half the Jews in Israel do not trust rabbis, and for a good reason. They are sexual perverts, money grubbers, are stunningly aggressive in their intolerance of anyone other than themselves. Some Ultra-Orthodox Jewish rabbis attack other Orthodox Jewish rabbis; they hate Reformed Jews and will go so far to say that Reformed Jews aren't even Jews. So, what God is talking about here is very real. They are dishonest through and through.

I will pour out (shaphak – I will shed (qal imperfect)) a boundless amount (gebuwl – a colossal extent) of My righteous indignation and intense displeasure with an outpouring of My wrath ('ebrah 'any – My utter disappointment and frustration, kindling My fury) upon them ('al hem – over and on top of them) as if it were fluid (ka ha maym – like water).” (Howsha' / He Liberates / Hosea 5:10)

Like water inundating them. When Yahowah returns you can be certain that God is going to be intolerant of those who are religious and political. If you are a high-ranking religious or political person, you are toast. And if you're one of those people who empower them and have conveyed their message and caused others to follow them, you are in trouble. God's righteous indignation and wrath will be upon you and that's a bad thing because He happens to be God and it's a bad thing because there are no second chances here. There are no tomorrows for these individuals. We're reaching a time in just a matter of a decade, ten years from now, where there will be no second chances. There will be “No, I'm sorry let me see if I can do better.” It's just over. God's going to return for His family. Those who want to be reconciled will be; we will spend an eternity together with our Father and we will bid farewell forever to all others. Just as there was no religious or political influence in Eden there will be none upon Yahowah's return.

Yahowah's animosity is consistently directed toward political and religious leaders, and then it floods down upon the masses once they have been corrupted beyond the hope of words and reason. In this case, sar describes government officials and religious leaders, the authority figures, within Yahuwdah | Judah, a Jewish community. It offers the impression that they act as lords, as if they were royals designated by their god to rule. They believe they have the right to impose their will on everyone else, restricting the choices of others to control them.

While God's criticism throughout the book of Howsha', and really throughout all His prophets, is directed at Israel and Yahuwdym, that is not to say that He is accepting of Gowym who are religious and political. His animosity towards them though isn't as shrill, not because their religions or politics are better -in some cases they are worse. I think Islam is more overtly satanic than is Christianity and that Christianity is more overtly satanic than Judaism. Yahowah did not reveal His Towrah to Christians, He did not liberate Muslims, He did not speak Arabic or English, He did not come to Rome or Mecca. He liberated Yahuwdym | Jews, He formed His Covenant with 'Abraham, Yitschaq and Ya'aqob. He walked across the desert into the Promised Land with Yisra'el, He revealed Himself, His Towrah and everything He had to offer through the Covenant and the Towrah to the Children of Yisra'el. He called them to be set apart, to be different people unto Himself and when they behave badly and become religious, it's vastly more irritating. So, that's where we are in all this and it's why God is so upset with it, not because their religion is worse than Christianity, Islam or Progressive politics, but because they had every advantage, they were offered so much and they chose to spit in God's face.

God's assessment of Jewish political and religious leaders is that they are untrustworthy. He calls them "disloyal deviants" which sounds like He knows them pretty well. Maybe He foresaw what was going to happen with Benjamin Netanyahu. It hurts me to say it, but Benjamin Netanyahu has the capacity to be a good statesman and leader. He has at times said the right things as it relates to the Fakestinians. He doesn't know how to say it anymore.

Recently the United States did something exceedingly embarrassing, it voted in favor on a UN resolution against Israel for building homes in the supposed West Bank | Judea and Samaria. Netanyahu said, "It's embarrassing the United States voted for this because in this resolution there was no mention of Fakestinian terrorists, no mention of pay for slay, that this is our historic Homeland, no mention of how many Jews they have killed recently or were acting in self-defense as we try to forestall terrorism or that all we're doing is building homes." That's not strong enough. Strong enough is to say, "You all are advocating a two-state solution which is really no different than the Final Solution of Adolf Hitler. You're advocating for a people that does not exist. There are no such things as Palestinians, there is no place called Palestine; it is an outright and complete lie and if you must lie you don't have anything to advocate. These are people that raise their children to hate and kill Jews. This is not their Homeland, it is ours. There will never be a Fakestinian state," and He can't say it. He's put together what must be the worst coalition of all time. The misfits that are part of this, their religious zeal of the fundamentalists and his government is going to destroy Israel; it's ripping the country apart. His predecessor, Levine, has got to be amongst the worst human beings that I have ever encountered. He's the worst of Jews. He glorifies himself and is literally tearing his country apart, playing with Progressives in Israel, of which there are way too many, telling them things like put the Judiciary under the influence of elected officials is destroying democracy. How could you be so stupid to fall for that? I do think there are undercurrents of judicial reform that are self-serving for Netanyahu and others, and that's a shame, but the fact of the matter is that if the Judiciary is completely removed from accountability of the people, which it is now, then it is an undemocratic institution. Establishing some controls over it through elected officials is a sensible and democratic thing to do. Israel is being ripped apart at a time when the world is almost universally lashing out at Israel and trying to destroy it.

One of the things I was going to bring up with the stupidity of the proxy war with Russia through the Ukraine is that it crated any chance the world had to constrain Iran and their building of a bomb because the only influence that we had over Iran was through Russia and by warring with Russia we put all of that in a situation where the only way to stop them now is to have Israel bomb them and it's a very difficult mission, if it even can be done, and it will further isolate Israel; all because of America's mess. So, Israel is in a bad spot at the moment.

Being misled by politics or religion, even conspiracy or patriotism, is a sure way to waste one's life and lose one's soul, but it is not a crime. If you want to be misled, so be it. Crawl into your hole and cover yourself up with like-minded people. But when you speak out and mislead others that is an offense worthy of Divine Judgement. If you want to be stupid, keep it to yourself.

Worse, Jewish religious and political leadership has engendered Yahowah's wrath, which He intends to unleash upon them. The torrent of His animosity will flood upon them in mountainous waves of righteous indignation. The very men who claim to speak for God and represent His people are the most displeasing to Him.

How's that for an irony? That's one of the reasons why it's so difficult to reach out to and educate Jewish men and women today. Some 80% of the Ultra-Orthodox religious and the super liberal progressives can't be reasoned with. Even God's word isn't going to matter to them. Evidence and reason will not matter to them, even desperate times are not going to matter to them.

“Ephraym | the Worthless Speck of Carbon Ash (Ephraym), has been deceived and defrauded, extorted and oppressed (asaq – he has been subjugated by tyrants, brutally treated, horribly cheated, and viciously exploited (qal participle)).

His competence in exercising good judgment is incapacitated and his ability to reason is shattered (ratsats mishpat – his thinking and decision-making are broken, his capacity to resolve disputes is fractured and fragmented (qal participle)).

This is because (ky) he has been intent on, agreeable to, and fixated upon (ya'al – he is particularly willing and determined (hifil perfect)) going after a variety (halak 'achar – to pursue right to the very end) of worthless religious dogmas (tsaw – idolatrous forms of human excrement, revolting filth, utter nonsense, unsubstantiated ideas and fake gods, a whole lot of futile and vain blah-blah-blah).”
(Howsha / He Saves / Hosea 5:11)

Tsaw is a ts which is a sign and a wah, so it is somebody who is steadfast in conveying a message. So, the Tsade being a sign and the wah being a tent peg is somebody who has dug in displaying their sign or a message. And, of course, the wah being in Hebrew in Yahowah's name is going to face away from the angle of that time. So, it's somebody reading this material anyway which is what the religious do all the time.

This is the point that we've been trying to make. The problem in trying to encourage Yisra'elites and Yahuwdym to listen to Yahowah, to reject the rabbis, their politicians and to give Yahowah a chance after some 3,000 years of ignoring Him is that they've been so indoctrinated that their ability to exercise good judgment is incapacitated. They've been fixated on all the wrong things. The Tsade is in a prone position and reading. Look at the Ultra-Orthodox. They spend their lives reading rabbinical rubbish in the Babylonian Talmud. No wonder they can't think; no wonder they're dressed for their own funeral. They're dug in. Look at the progressives that are marching by the hundreds of thousands in Tel Aviv thoughtlessly holding their little signs and yet they are comatose, incapable of reason, of thoughtfully understanding the issues that surround them; they're the reason democracy doesn't work. They are just not smart enough.

Religious institutions and governments are crippling. They incapacitate people, institutions, nations to the point that thinking is debilitated and choices are restricted. It does not matter how much freedom you have if you can't make a good choice. People are defrauded of their freedom by bad information because what good is it to have God offering everything to you and your religious or political leader promising everything when you're not smart enough to differentiate between them? When you've been so tantalized and hypnotized by your religious leaders or spellbound by your political leaders that God's voice is drowned out, what good is your freedom if you don't even know what the options are, you don't even know if there is a choice?

Do you think that a Hasidic child decides to be Hasidic, a Roman Catholic child decides it wants to be Roman Catholic? Do you know how many children that are raised in progressive families decide I think I want to be a Trumpite? It just doesn't happen.

DEE: This is a conversation I had with my dad once. I said, "You're a Christian because that's what you were taught and your father before you, and I'm just looking and investigating this." I presented the information, and he wanted nothing to do with it. I told him, "You're a Christian because that's what you were taught and I'm choosing to break free." He just can't stand it.

YADA: I was raised in a right-wing Republican family. My father was an antisemite and a racist. My mother was a fundamentalist Christian. I went to church and became a Christian and a right-wing Republican. Somewhere along the way I began to ask questions. I got to know politicians personally with business success; I didn't like them very much and disrespected all of them. I found that the people that were most likely to cheat me were religious. I had that experience repeatedly. Then after being a trained evangelist, a Stephen's minister, and the youngest ordained ruling Elder in the history of the Presbyterian Church at the time I came up with some 20 questions that nobody could answer. So, I realized this is nonsense, why am I devoting my life to things I know are untrue politically and religiously? It is very unusual though for someone to break away from their parents, their religion and their politics.

I became disgusted with my father's antisemitism and his racism, and with my mother's thoughtless and emotional religion. And that's where Yahowah found me. I had become an agnostic; I had walked away. I was probably where 'Abraham was having left the religious and political environment of Ur, of Sumer (which became Babylon) at the time.

Why was Dowd out there Bethlehem and all his other brothers were hanging around his father in the more popular areas? Why was Moseh not there in Egypt living the high life in the family of Pharaoh but instead out tending sheep in the inner lands of Arabia? Because they all walked away out of disgust by it.

DEE: I speak to a lot of Covenant family on the social sites and it's this common theme with every one of them - they all walked away from their family, religion, politics, lost siblings, parents, children. Every one of us has this one thing ...

YADA: One of the elements of the prerequisite for being part of the Covenant is such a surprise to people. We don't even hear it said very often. It begins by asking them to walk away from their country. Their country was Ur of the Chaldeans in Babylon and Babylon is the birthplace of institutionalized religion and its integration into the government. It was a militaristic patriotic state. God says walk away from that. Okay, you understand you want to be in a relationship with Yahowah you cannot be religious, political, patriotic or militaristic. But the next part of it is you need to walk away from your culture, and I don't think there's any people who have valued their culture more than do Jews. Even secular Jews are immersed in the culture of being Jewish.

The third was walk away from your father's house. I did. It was easy for me because my father was a creep, it's just the way it was. He was a horrible person. I became stronger by having walked away from him. But before I even knew what Yahowah wanted it done, I did it to survive. Most young men between the ages of 17 and 25 break free of their father's influence to set out on their own to start their own families, their own careers and build their own homes. Sometimes you are fortunate, as I am with my youngest son, and you come back together after that break, but it is something that is an essential Rite of Passage. The reason Yahowah says you have to walk away from your father's house is because we have this choice; we can be part of the family of man or we can be part of the family of God. The family of God is the Covenant, the five conditions five benefits. The path to it is through the Mow'ed Miqra'ey. The only means of life eternal, the only means to enter Heaven, the only means to develop a relationship with God is through the Covenant. It is the exact same path for Yahuw'dym and Gowym and it is this very thing that we're asked to choose between. God wants us to know that human families are fractured. We all, even before choosing to be part of Yahowah's Covenant and to be Towrah observant, had problems with our families.

Yada stream lost.

DEE: So, it was the same for you, Kirk, with your family?

KIRK: I had separated a long time ago from most of them. My parents got divorced I was living in Australia at the time, and I had no desire to come back to Alabama. My father would stay there and my mother came back for a while in Mississippi. I didn't want to go back there because I loved Sydney and had lived there since I was in the sixth grade. I had only one year of school left and that was college prep, the way their system works. So, I quit school and decided to be a golf pro. I completed two years of apprenticeship and was pretty good at it. Then the government wrote me a wonderful letter saying we were under attack from I guess the Vietnamese, all hands-on deck, show up. So, they made me come back and then they didn't want me because I have asthma and I said, "Well, that's a heck of a deal." From that point on I'm 16 years old and alone and used to living by myself so I didn't have quite the family attachments of a lot of people; I've been kind of an independent cuss, but I did get into religion because I couldn't find God; I didn't know where to find Him. Nothing was any good, none of it. It's horribly disappointing but as it turned out I had learned enough that when I first read Yada' Yah I said, "My gosh, that's right. I know that's right and absolutely know that I've seen that book.

Yada stream returns.

Yahowah does want us to recognize that our family relationships fail in many levels. Look at Dowd. He had the worst episode of his life when his third-born son, Absalom tried a coup and wanted to kill his father. It was traumatizing, his response to it was horrific, and it was the worst moment of his life. So, he's not unique in this regard. He was an exceptional man, perhaps the greatest man who ever lived and yet he had problems. His father wasn't particularly supportive, we know nothing of his mother. That doesn't say a lot, does it. You don't have eight wives if your first wife was spectacular. You don't have 10 concubines if you're happily married. He had all sorts of problems with his kids. He is a marvelous example of the fact that in human relationships things go bad. He did his best to try to work with Solomon; He knew that Solomon was unprepared for the job and that He did everything he could do to teach him.

So, God's saying the human family is going to disappoint you. I'm offering you an eternal family. You help your Earthly family become part of the Eternal family so that you can have it all which is a wonderful relationship with your Earthly family because they're part of the Covenant family. But if you choose to prioritize your father's house over your Heavenly Father's house you will end up disappointed. We are given a choice and if we choose the religious family, if we choose the political family, if we choose our Earthly family and those traditions, then we're not going to be with Him.

Religion, to the maximum extent possible, but also politics, renders its victims unable to think rationally. They become averse to evidence and are unfazed by reason. Hand a rational and secular Jew the first eight volumes of Yada Yahowah and they will grow to vehemently oppose the rabbis, but you could bury the Haredim in them and they wouldn't know what hit them.

Based upon the correspondence, there is no one the world over who has read the four volumes of Questioning Paul and remained a Christian; however, those who are steeped in their religion can't make it through the opening chapter.

So, it's the same thing. We know when we are reaching out to Yisra'elites and Yahuw'dym that we start by scratching off 80% because they are either too progressive and too irrationally devoted to their politics or they are too religious to listen to reason, and that's a shame.

Yahowah's not looking for numbers, He's not looking to convert people, He doesn't want to save everyone, He's interested in offering to those who choose to be with Him who accept the terms and conditions of His Covenant, who attend His Mow'ed Miqra'ey, He's offering to them the opportunity to be part of His family and live with Him forever. That's quite an offer and all you have to do is listen to what He says and respond. And should you not know what He said and how to respond start by reading at yadayah.com the three volumes of An Introduction to God, the eight volumes of Yada Yah, the five volumes of Observations, the two volumes of Coming Home, the three volumes of Babel, the four volumes of Questioning Paul. It's a lot there to learn. If you want to know how awful religion could be read Profit of Doom or Tea with Terrorists. There are so many wonderful opportunities to shed ignorance and to become aware. We will never in this life outlive our initial calling which is exceedingly simple. We are Taruw'ah. This program is about ruwa', this is Yahowah's Showphar. It may not sound as sweet as does the ran's horn when sounded by my wife, but that is who we are.

It's time for you to listen, to pay attention; it's going to get exceedingly nasty out there particularly for Jews and very quickly the world is crashing down. They have been put in such a bad situation now between Levine and Netanyahu dividing the country in almost half between progressives and fundamentalists and that is not going to end well. The world is turned against them, Europe is as anti-Semitic as it's ever been, the United States has no backbone or character anymore, it has got to be the worst friend any nation ever had; it's on the losing side. Russia has had it with Israel and Israel has to have a relationship with Russia because of Syria and Iran. Israel is all excited about their Abraham Accords and that there are Arab Nations normalizing relationships, but when it comes down to these battles that are coming, those agreements will mean nothing. Israel itself with runaway inflation right now is being torn apart and the onslaught of Islamic terrorism is greater than ever before, and in Israel the world is demanding that it give up Judea and Samaria and cede it to the Muslims who wish to destroy it just as they demanded that they cede Gaza to the Muslims and look what it got them. They are facing Hezbollah Rockets to the north, Iranian drones that can be now deployed out of Syria or Iraq, to the east a very angry Europe and Russia to the north; it's a vulnerable position. And with anti-Semitism rising and with the growth of the Haredi in Israel being so caustic to the nation, and the rapid growth of progressives in America among Jews and in Israel this is a frightening time, and the world is unraveling and no people are going to feel the brunt of that more than God's people, and yet you have the opportunity to live forever. You have the opportunity to know your God. His name is Yahowah, you can engage in the Covenant relationship. He is calling you home, you can live with Him forever and He will protect you and your family. Listen to what He has to say. Go to yadayah.com and begin reading. Start with An Introduction to God and find out why you and why me. Then let's do our utmost in the ten years we have remaining to make Yowm Kipurym the most wonderful celebration of reunion any family has ever experienced. That is our calling.

Kirk and Dee, is there anything else you would like to add?

KIRK" There are no regrets for doing this. What you lose is nothing compared to what you gain. Look at the family we have now.

YADA: It is the family we have and it is the most wonderful family in the universe; it is our family forevermore and we are looking forward to the return of our Father to Earth so we can camp out with Him and the return of our Messiah and King, Dowd.

DEE: And His herald is championing the way. So, listen up folks.

YADA: Yes, and the return of 'EiYah on Passover 2030. I will be very excited to see 'EiYah's return. I think it's going to be a wonderful experience. He's the most sarcastic of the witnesses; I'm doing my level best to up my game. I'm delighted that Yahowah loves sarcasm. Of all the people that He could have called to come back in the last days to give His people one last opportunity He didn't pick my favorite Prophet, the brilliant Yasha'yah | Isaiah, He didn't pick the man whose empathy for God was greater than anyone, Howsha', He didn't pick the man who is the greatest leader the world has ever known, Moseh, He picked 'EiYah, a man who didn't even have a book of his own prophecies to leave with us. But he had a hundred percent confidence in Yahowah and a hundred percent aversion to politics and religion, and a sense of humor. He knew how to confront the idiocy of religion and politics with sarcasm and sarcasm I've always said is intellectual humor. Clearly Yahowah likes it because he's the one that God is calling back.

The rabbis keep saying, "Ezekiel's temple is kind of weird and we don't really know what to make of it and we understand that the visions of God that are presented in Ezekiel are whacked out but it's okay because 'EiYah's coming back, and he'll explain it to us." You may want to go back and read that whole episode of 'EiYah and the 850 prophets that were representatives of the king and queen to see how those religious and political did against him and the last time we played this game and what happened to the advocates of religion and politics. They died.

I can assure you that 'EiYah is coming back on Passover in 2030 but if you're religious you aren't gonna like what he has to say.

All right my friends, thank you for filling in while I dropped out. We look forward to being with you all next week.

May Yah bless. Goodnight.
